MOVIE QUEST WON BY COLLEGE GIRL

Allston Girl Seized in Holdup

(Picture on Page 2)

Esther L. Chase of Greylock road, Allston, attractive 22-year-old brunette, was arrested today in connection with the daring $10,000 holdup of Sam's, Inc., at Nantasket Beach in July.

She was an employe of Sam's, Inc., at the time of the robbery.

She was seized in her apartment by a squad of Boston and Hull police armed with a warrant that charged her with being accessory before the fact of the robbery.

Taken to the Women's House of Detention, she later faced a lineup at police headquarters to which officials and employes of Sam's restaurant were summoned.

SIMPSON TOOK PART

Edward L. Simpson, alleged slayer of two Newton policemen, had already confessed taking part in the holdup, according to authorities, but no other arrests had been made prior to Miss Chase's today.

Five men took part in that foray, which took place at the foot of the Nantasket Steamboat Company pier on July 6. They wired up the hands of three restaurant employes and two customers after holding them up at gunpoint.

Miss Chase, employed at the time as a food checker, had told investigators, that she was in another small dining room finishing her breakfast when the holdup occurred. She did not enter the main dining room, scene of the crime, until after the robbers had fled.

VICTIMS WIRED UP

Wired up by the robbers were Robert Brickman of Dorchester, auditor of the restaurant; Clarence Andrews of Lynn and Paul Kitts of Jamaica Plain, employes; Richard Sergeant of Hull and Herbert Belford of New York, customers and members of the crew of the steamer Town of Hull.

Public Safety Commissioner Henry Stevens of Hull and Detective Sergeant James V. Crowley of Boston directed the respective Hull and Boston police squads arresting the Chase girl.

It was intimated that another arrest would follow as a result of the girl's seizure.

Black Radio Plea 'Pains' Co-Justices

Former Cloaks His Address Plans In Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS) — An amazing and unprecedented chapter in American history will be written tonight when Supreme Court Justice Hugo Lafayette Black defends his right to take his seat on the nation's highest tribunal.

Justice Black will address one of the greatest radio audiences in history over all major networks between 9:30 and 10 p. m. Eastern Standard time tonight.

Harry C. Butcher, vice-president of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Washington, announced the broadcast would originate here at the residence of Claude E. Hamilton, Jr., Reconstruction Finance Corporation counsel. The Hamiltons have long been friends of Black, and the Justice will speak before microphones set up in the living room of the Hamiltons' modest home.

OTHERS SURPRISED

Never before has an appointee to the Supreme Court gone to the nation to prove that he is morally or legally qualified to decide the greatest constitutional issues.

Justices of the high court refused to comment on the new precedent. Friends represented some of them as being surprised and pained at the plan of Justice Black.

The question which hung on the lips of Washington officialdom as the "zero hour" neared was:

Will Justice Black admit that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama or that he holds an unrenounced life membership?

TALK UNCENSORED

Justice Black himself cloaked his plans in secrecy. Political associates differed in their predictions.

The new justice, it was predicted in usually reliable quarters, will minimize the Klan issue. He will defend President Roosevelt and will say that the allegations against him are a part and parcel of the fight on the President and the New Deal.

The speech of the justice is expected to require 20 minutes. It will be uncensored. A broadcasting company spokesman said that the usual rule that speeches must be submitted in advance will be waived.

Dolan, Good, Tomasello Named

Governor Hurley today promoted Judge Arthur W. Dolan of Suffolk probate court to the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts.

He promoted Judge Francis J. Good from Central municipal court to the superior court bench. And he chose assistant U. S. Attorney Frank W. Tomasello to be a municipal court justice.

All three appointments are subject to approval of the executive council which will meet again next week from today instead of at the regular mid-week meeting.

It was practically a foregone conclusion that Executive Secretary John V. Mahoney would be chosen to fill the probate justice vacancy at that next meeting.

HIGGINS SWORN IN

Corridors and anterooms in the executive suite were jammed as the announcements were made and the crowd lingered long afterwards to see Councillor John F. Higgins take the oath as new chief justice of the Superior court.

Judge Dolan fills the vacancy on the Supreme bench left by the retirement of Justice John C. Crosby who tendered his resignation last Monday.

For more than 15 years, Judge Dolan has served in the probate court, having been appointed by former Governor Channing H. Cox. His home is in Brighton.

Born in the West End, 61 years ago, Judge Dolan is a graduate of Boston College and Harvard Law School. He is an authority on probate law and observers, in forecasting his appointment, saw that such an authority was needed on the Supreme bench.

Judge Dolan is married and has five children: Arthur Barr, commonly called "Barr" because it's his mother's maiden name; John, Helen, William and Mary.

GOOD SUCCEEDS SIMS

Judge Good, a former state commander of the American Legion, succeeds Associate Justice James E. Sims in the Superior Court. Judge Sisk retired earlier this week. The salary is $12,000 a year.

A resident of Cambridge, Judge Good was appointed to the municipal court nine years ago. He is a graduate of Boston University law school and has been a member of the bar since 1913.

He is 45 years old and the father of four children, three boys and a girl.

He was first appointed a special justice by former Governor Fuller and was promoted to a permanent position by former Governor Allen.

Judge Tomasello, who is 37 years old, has served as assistant U. S. Attorney since June, 1935. He is married and has two children. He is a graduate of Boston College and of Boston University Law School.

He succeeds Judge Michael J. Murray, who retired last Saturday from the central municipal court. His salary will be $9000 a year. Judge Tomasello's home is in Dorchester.

Girl Slays Brother, 7, and Mother

Detroit Beauty, 23, Suicide; Shot at Other Brother

YPSILANTI, Mich., Oct. 1 (INS) —Less than 24 hours after Ruth Brodie McHenry, beautiful 23-year-old Detroit social registerite, committed suicide in her home there, police today found her mother and a seven-year-old brother shot to death in a parked automobile on a lonely country road, here.

Ypsilanti police, reconstructing of the crime, expressed belief that Miss McHenry, daughter of a prominent Detroit attorney, shot and killed her mother and brother, then drove to her home and turned the gun on herself.

NO MOTIVE APPARENT

Police were baffled in an attempt to find a motive for the guilt strange acts.

According to police, the mother, Mrs. James McHenry, and the boy, James, Jr., had been dead for nearly 24 hours.

The car in which they were found was seen parked by the road early yesterday evening by County Clerk Emmett Gibbs.

He did not investigate at that time, but on seeing it still parked there this morning informed police. Police found the bodies covered with a blanket.

BROTHER, 11, WOUNDED

Miss McHenry, Detroit police said, also nearly killed her 14-year-old brother, Donald, just before she ended her own life.

Donald, returning home, walked up to the front door of the McHenry home to be greeted by a bullet fired through the door by his sister.

The bullet grazed young Donald's forehead, inflicting a scalp wound and missing his temple by a fraction of an inch.

The boy ran to the home of a neighbor, Frank Weber, who called police.

Police learned that Miss McHenry had been under treatment by a psychiatrist recently. She also has been in ill health a year ago.

She had planned to enter the University of Michigan as a special student this Fall.

6 Others Lauded In Test

By ANN MARSTERS

The winner of the Boston American-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Talent Quest is Helen Hughes, 18-year-old student at Emerson College of Oratory in Boston.

She lives on Commonwealth avenue, Boston; she is blond, blue-eyed, petite and charming.

The M. G. M. judges in New York telephoned their final decision to this newspaper yesterday afternoon. In stating their choice, they said that Miss Hughes has remarkable possibilities both as an actress and as a personality for motion pictures.

They asked that Miss Hughes be sent to New York early next week to receive advice and coaching from Al Altman, Eastern talent director, and from dramatic coaches in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talent department.

TO SIGN CONTRACT

In New York she will also sign a month's contract, with option to renew, with calls for her to play a role in an M. G. M. production. For her four weeks trial in a bit part, Miss Hughes will receive $75 a week.

On October 14 she will leave Boston for Hollywood, via American Airlines, to begin her career as a motion picture actress.

The judges were unanimous in their first selection of Helen Hughes. But after running and rerunning the screen tests of the 17 finalists which were made in Boston last Sunday, they announced a list of six girls whom they believe have screen possibilities.

That list is:

Barbara Risdon, of Crescent street, Waltham.

Marjorie Simmons, of High street, Ludlow.

Janet McNeil, of Devon Hill, Chestnut Hill.

Joan Brown of Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Paroled Killer To Face Hurley

Wilfred Dart, 34-year-old paroled lifer, was ordered to appear before Governor Hurley and the Executive Council today to show cause why his parole should not be revoked.

Dart, awaiting trial Monday in connection with the theft of watches from the E. B. Horn Company show window in Washington street, was paroled from Norfolk Prison Colony last Christmas Day.

He had served five years of a life sentence for murder of a bootlegging associate in 1931.

The unusual order was served upon the parole today by Acting Attorney General James J. Ronan. The order stated that Dart, with or without counsel was to appear before the governor and council to show cause why his parole should not be revoked.

Dart, with three other youths, was arrested September 25 by police who allege they caught him as he fled the scene of a daylight robbery of the Horn Company. Police say the thieves threw two rocks through the window, seized $200 worth of watches and fled.

New Cotton Plan Told by Wallace

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace made public here today a government cotton policy designed to serve notice to the world that the United States intends to keep its place in the world cotton market."

Housewives Join Food Price War

Aroused by the increasing costs of meats, Boston housewives led New England in joining a nation-wide mass consumers' uprising.

At the same time City Councillor John E. Kerrigan prepared an order, asking Mayor Mansfield to call on President Roosevelt for a federal investigation of soaring food prices, Boston housewives prepared to boycott the butchers.

Instead of beef, pork or lamb, they would substitute fish on the daily menu until federal or private industrial control can bring about more equitable meat prices.

Faced with meat strikes on a national scale, spreading from California to New York, leaders of the Roosevelt Administration are confronted by a crisis among incensed housewives equally as potent as the Supreme Court controversy.

Not since the "meatless days" and stringent food economy of, the World War has the nation seen such soaring prices in food staples, particularly in meats.

Beef alone has risen approximately 50 per cent in retail cost since a year ago.

Bar Committee Bans Resolve On Black

Controversy on Klan Stifled After Bitter Fight

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 1 (INS)—The resolutions committee of the American Bar Association announced today that no resolution concerning Justice Hugo L. Black would be forthcoming.

Climaxing a bitterly fought controversy during which Black's name and his alleged Klan connections were frequently mentioned, this action was believed to have finally stifled the measure.

The question may still be brought up by some members from the floor, but it will have to be referred again to the resolutions committee, which would probably have insufficient time for new consideration before the close of the convention.

In recommending disposal of a resolution introduced Monday by Robert Lee Tullis, dean emeritus of Louisiana State University law school, that Black's alleged Klan affiliations be investigated, the committee decided:

"There is nothing now pending in respect to which the association could take any effective action if it undertook the inquiry proposed."

The committee's recommendation of disapproval, however, was not carried out in its entirety. A sufficient number of lawyers rallied to send the resolution back for "further study and possible revision."

Black Assigned Seat in Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Supreme Court apparently expects Justice Hugo L. Black to take his seat on Monday.

It has included the new justice's name on a printed slip prepared for distribution to court visitors to show the seating position of the members.

United States Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black is pictured here at a microphone. Tonight, at 9:30, Eastern Standard Time, he will speak over a nation-wide radio hook-up, presumably to give his long-awaited answer to charges linking him with the Ku Klux Klan.

Wives Lead Meat Cost Revolt

Forced to use lamb as a substitute for beef and pork, many families locally have now seen mutton, as well, rise beyond their purse limitations.

Led by Miss Florence Birmingham, president of the Massachusetts Women's Political Club, a non-partisan organization, housemakers of Boston and New England today were in the stages of preparing a revolt reminiscent of the time Boston fishwives drove invaders from their homes after their men-folk had failed.

HAS PROGRAM

Militantly demanding a federal probe of alleged "price-fixing" by Chicago meat packers, Miss Birmingham proposes a two-point program, to halt dizzily-climbing meat prices and sing to boom Massachusetts' great fishing industry.

"We hung the Sacred Cod in the State House," Miss Birmingham asserted. "Now is our opportunity to affirm our allegiance to that symbol.

"I have in mind a plan I believe any organization will support. It calls for meatless days, and the eating of more fish.

"Fish is a healthful food and the basis of Massachusetts' greatest industry. Through consumption of more fish, we support home industry and increase work and wages among our own people.

"By adhering to this two-point program, women throughout the nation can force meat packers to reduce their prices. It is the old story of supply and demand.

"We realize that local retailers and wholesalers are not to blame—the responsibility lies with those Chicago meat packers who control prices."

NEW DEAL IDEA CENSURED

Movements were afoot, also, to call upon former President Hoover, federal emergency food administrator during World War days, to again step into the national picture, heading the groups now protesting increased food costs.

Severe criticism was being levelled at the Roosevelt Administration for its hog-and-steer reduction program of former years, when thousands of head of beef cattle and porkers were slaughtered by the Department of Agriculture.

Official records in Washington today showed beef at the highest price since 1929, pork chops at an eight-year record high, with fruits, dairy products, eggs and bread all far advanced in cost over prices in this decade.

Hotel and restaurant owners joined the mass protest, saying they are now not even able to obtain prime beef, demanded by Boston epicures, and that prices for second grades have risen to almost fantastic pinnacles.

BEEF AT RECORD HIGH

In Chicago this week, beef prices reached a record high when prime cattle from Iowa sold at $19.50 a hundred pounds on the hoof, highest price since 1920.

And during the past seven years prime beef has fallen so low that at times best beef steers sold for less than $50 an animal—representing anywhere from 1200 to 2000 pounds.

The advance in prices of home economics has reached into other fields, heating, clothing, housing and vegetable foodstuffs, Commerce Department records showed, making the house wife's problem one extremely difficult this fall.

Viewing this situation as vital to the nation's welfare, and potent in its possibilities for civil strife, Secretaries Wallace, Roper and Perkins reportedly have been spending long hours in conference, seeking some solution.

Pa. Klan Is Masked Under False Name

(In the 10th and last of his revealing series of articles on the revival of the Ku Klux Klan in America, W. W. Chaplin tells of the Klan's return in Pennsylvania.)

By W. W. CHAPLIN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1—The Ku Klux Klan is working feverishly to make this Keystone State of the union once more the keystone of Klan strength it was in 1928 when Pennsylvania counted 340,000 robed and hooded members.

Present membership estimates, made difficult by klan secrecy, range all the way from 80,000 to more than 100,000.

Whatever the present total, it can be said with accuracy that it is increasing rapidly in Philadelphia, here and throughout western and central Pennsylvania.

There are 423 chartered klans in Pennsylvania and 65 of the state's 67 counties are represented on klan membership rolls.

Common report has it that there are at least two Klansmen now serving as judges and that even one or two of the Pennsylvania congressmen at Washington have at least been exceedingly friendly to the klan and appreciative of its support.

CONCEAL IDENTITY

Concealing its identity behind the mask of another name, the Klan has succeeded in enlisting the co-operation of various patriotic societies in helping to elect candidates acceptable to the klan.

Today in my search for information about the klan, to determine whether its present strength was increasing here as rapidly as in some of the other northern and southern states I have visited, I hunted out the man who has been most powerful in the klan here since its founding in 1915.

He is William G. Hohman, and I found him in his office in a coffin company factory, where he is a minor executive. When I told him my errand he led me half way down a flight of stairs and in that privacy spoke to me in a low voice, falling silent when anyone ascended or descended.

Hohman is a small, frail man, thin and white-haired; but he has been a powerful man in the Klan as member of the Pennsylvania Grand Dragon's Grand Council.

AGAINST VIOLENCE

He told me:

"I have always been against violence and for that reason we are being tremendously careful now whom we take in. But we are taking them in plenty.

"In the old days, when the rush was on, lots of people joined the Klan because they thought that right away they'd be handed a pail of tar and some feathers and could go out after anyone they didn't like. We don't want that sort."

Hohman, his voice scarcely a whisper on the dark stairs, disclosed to me the scheme he himself devised to get other organizations to play the Klan's game. He said:

"We are active in politics. For that purpose we call ourselves 'Vigilant Americans' and as such send out press releases and have allied ourselves with numerous patriotic organizations.

35 'KEY MEN'

"From those allied organizations and the Klan itself I have selected some 35 'Key Men.' We get together and decide which candidates are undesirable. Then word is passed around to the combined membership and the members know their duty."

Although he did not deny that some politicians in the state were Klansmen, Hohman asserted the Klan here rather tried to avoid signing up such men. He said:

"We have found you can't trust them. There is a big foreign-born element here and the politicians curry the favor of that element, which is a part of the population excluded from the Klan."

Hohman said that Klansmen took an active part in the recent attack by farmers and others to break up a sit-down strike at Hershey, Pa., saying:

"The Klan didn't show in that, they didn't wear robes or hoods, but they were there all right."

FOUGHT KLAN

Tonight I talked with Van A. Barrickman, a distinguished lawyer who "broke" the Klan at the peak of its power. As attorney for insurgent Klansmen who charged the organization was being improperly and illegally operated, he fought the Klan in the federal courts and even brought Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans from Atlanta to testify.

Barrickman, hesitant to inject himself into any new argument about the Klan, acknowledged he had heard stories of increase Klan strength in some sections of the state.

The last public meeting was the state Klonvro held at York, Pa., a little less than two weeks ago, and the more secretive activities give better indication of the Klan's growing strength.

Once again crossing flame across the night from distant hillsides and the lesser officials of the Klan whisper exultantly:

"We're coming back to the old power, r'ut wait and see."

(With this concluding article in the series on America's Klan revival, I have surveyed the present status of the Klan in a cross-section of American states.

I have told of renewed activities booming in Georgia and Florida; of efforts to keep the Klan from dying out in Alabama, of Klan revivals going strong in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

What is true of the latter three states is also true of other states in the north, where the Klan once exercised its power. Klan officials say there is a revival in Ohio and Michigan. And they boast it is spreading as far west as California itself.)

Money for Spain Aids Reds Here, Says Dorgan

More Than Half Used For Communistic Propaganda

While Harvard undergraduates called on Professor Walter B. Cannon to explain the appearance of their $2700 Red Cross ambulance in a Communist parade in Harlem, former Representative Thomas Dorgan, of Dorchester, today revealed.

That the Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy, of which Dr. Cannon is a "main official," forwarded $58,753.87 for the care of wounded and diseased soldiers of Spain's Red army—but spent more than half that amount for publicity and administration in this country.

The actual amount spent by the bureau in the United States was $31,252.68, according to figures made public by Dorgan.

FURNISHES FIGURES

As further evidence of the way in which funds contributed for Spanish relief are spent on this side of the Atlantic, the former legislator disclosed:

"Since May 1, a total of $130,-196.40 has been sent to Spain. In the same period, $154,866.97 has been spent in the United States for management and propaganda."

Another amazing case of high "overhead" cited by Dorgan is the North American Committee also allied with the cause of the Spanish Reds. This committee, according to Dorgan, spends almost $2 in the United States for every dollar sent to Spain.

CLAIMS BIG U. S. EXPENSES

The total "advanced for Communist aid to Spain" was put at $18,842.12, as against American expenditures of $35,306.97.

Dorgan, militant crusader against Communism and all subversive movements, forwarded his findings to Francis Keppel, president of the Harvard Student Council.

To a student body already boiling with indignation as a consequence of the ambulance incident, he promised:

"I shall prove to you that the League Against War and Fascism, which Dr. Cannon is interested in, is nothing more than a Communistic organization."

The ambulance question was raised by Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield and Mewrin K. Hart of New Hartford, N. Y., members of the student council. Through the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate newspaper, they demanded a full investigation of the fact.

CANNON EXPLAINS

The two students protested the ambulance was purchased with money contributed by undergraduates and faculty members last year—to be shipped to Spain's Communist organization.

Instead, they charged, it was used in a Red demonstration in Harlem on August 8.

With the matter set down as the first order of business at the first meeting of the student council October 8, Professor Cannon, who headed the drive to raise money for the ambulance, sought to defend the use of the vehicle in the New York parade. He said:

"It was not a Communist mass demonstration, nor a political meeting, but a parade participated by various organizations which are opposed to Fascist arrogance and effrontery."

He said the ambulance was not sent to Spain last spring because it would have been to expensive. It left for Spain August 14, he said.

Nabbed 3 Minutes After Purse Theft

Three minutes after a handbag snatching in Tremont street, Roxbury, two men in an automobile were arrested in Columbus avenue and charged with the theft today.

The victim, Mrs. Catherine Raymond of Mission street, Roxbury, said she had lost $5.40. A man jumped out of a machine, slugged her, and grabbed the bag, she said. She gave police the registration of the car. Police radio and prowl cars did the rest.

Heiress Escapes Service In $2,000,000 Balm Suit Brought by Judith Allen

JUDITH ALLEN DOYLE

Won't Look at Papers; 'Disgusted,' Says 'Boxing Thrush'

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 1—Barricaded in her swanky apartment, auto heiress Delphine Dodge Godde today defied detectives to serve her with papers in a $2,000,000 alienation of affections action brought against her by petite Judith Allen, screen star.

The actress, who was Marie Elliott of Belmont before entering filmdom, asks that sum for the alleged stolen love of her estranged husband, handsome Jack Doyle, Irish "boxing thrush."

When detectives sent by Judith's attorney, S. S. Hahn, arrived at Mrs. Godde's apartment they found barred doors and a frigid atmosphere awaiting them.

KNOCKED POLITELY

They knocked politely upon the door and told a woman whose voice answered—not Mrs. Godde, they said—that they had a slight matter of $2,000,000 to discuss with the millionairess.

Behind the locked portals, the sleuths heard an animated discussion and then the same voice replied:

"Go home, Mrs. Godde doesn't want to talk to you."

California laws being what they are, the baffled arms of the law retreated to the lobby, where Hahn told them to guard all entrances zealously and to serve the papers as soon as their object showed herself.

Told of the suit, Doyle declared:

"I am disgusted!"

Winsome Judith, whose charms use to thrill her Massachusetts swains before fame and Doyle arrived, declared in bringing the suit that she was still the erstwhile prizefighter's wife — despite a divorce she received last April.

Her love for the crooner and reputed fighter burns as fervidly as ever, she declared in her Los Angeles action, which pointed out that her final decree has not yet been granted.

CHARGES "WILES"

She maintained that she and the dashing Irishman would have been reunited through Doyle's attempts at reconciliation if Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Godde had not used "wiles and means" to alienate his affections.

Doyle was set up in a life of luxury by Mrs. Godde, according to the charges, and thus his love was weaned entirely away. His heiress-friend was said by Miss Allen to have showered him with gifts valued at thousands of dollars.

Mrs. Godde, last week announced her intention of leaving these shores for England with Doyle to seek a divorce, making possible her marriage to him soon.

She told reporters:

"All these rumors about our romance breaking up makes me darned mad. We're going to be married next April in London come what may."

And Doyle had echoed at that time:

"We don't have a worry in the world."

BEFORE SUIT

But that was before his pretty wife had asked two million shekels in lieu of his love.

Mrs. Doyle is the former wife of Gus Sonnenberg, ex-Dartmouth gridiron star and onetime world's professional wrestling champion. She and Sonnenberg were divorced in 1933.

In 1935 she married Doyle, who came to this country ostensibly to fight, but actually spent most of his time singing in an attempt to crash the Hollywood portals.

Marie Elliott's marriage to the husky wrestler was well known in Belmont social circles.

In Hollywood, however, not even her best friends knew that Judith Allen was the matman's bride.

Judith, it was said, feared that association with the grunt-and-groan profession might ruin her budding film career, so she kept her husband a deep, dark secret.

The "pay off" came when Sonnenberg and a fellow bone crusher forgot their cues and the champion landed in a Boston hospital.

While there, he heard recurrent rumors of how his wife was seen frequently in the company of Gary Cooper.

Irked, the convalescent husband told friends that he was tired of it all and that, furthermore, his wife hadn't even acknowledged the dozen roses he sent her.

New 'Missing Link' Is Found

Prehistoric Beast's Bones Unearthed

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—A newly discovered prehistoric beast a scientist called another "missing link"—rested in knock-down form today at the Field Museum of Natural History.

The fossilized bones, a nearly complete skeleton of a hitherto unknown species of extinct mammal, were found in the Badlands of western Colorado.

Nearly 18 months of painstaking work by skilled preparators will be required to free the bones from rock matrices and set them up as a skeleton for exhibition.

The beast has no name yet but belonged to the mammalian order amblypoda and lived in the upper Paleocene period nearly 50,000,000 years ago, when western Colorado was low and flat and the Rocky Mountain were in their infancy.

Co-ed Death Laid To Rare Malady

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 1 (INS)—The mysterious death of a University of Wisconsin co-ed 12 days ago was recorded today as the result of a glandular malady.

The victim was Barbara Martin, 18, of Birmingham, Mich., who was found dead in her dormitory room shortly after returning from a date in apparent good health.

Dr. Frank L. Kozelka, state toxicologist, who made an analysis on the suspicion that she had been drugged or poisoned, reported she suffered from a superactivity of the lymph gland complicated by an underdevelopment of the heart and blood vessels.

He said the direct cause of death was the rupture of a small blood vessel at the base of the brain.

Miss McAdoo said today she hopes to obtain a radio audition and eventually enter grand opera.

6 Tech Girls On Dean's List

Four From Cambridge Among 576 Names

Girls at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology did as well, if not better, than their male fellow students, figures showing the make-up of the Dean's list, announced today reveal.

In fact, Cambridge girls were "tops" with four girls from that city attaining places of honor on the list, which included 576 names of students.

The girls who "made" the list were Pearl Rubeinstein of Roxbury, graduate of the Girls' Latin School, Tatiana Zarudnaya, Cambridge; Edith Cameron, Belmont; Marie Early, Cambridge; Margaret Dienes, Cambridge, and Jeanne Pearlson, also of Cambridge.

Some of Tech's athletic stars also stood out in scholastic ranking including Richard Mutter of Newton, captain of the varsity hockey team, and Phil Constance, member of the varsity boxing squad last year.

Boston Huskies Sent to Labrador

A team of seven Boston-trained huskies, descended from dogs used on the original Byrd South Pole Expedition, were en route to Labrador today to Dr. Charles S. Curtis, head of the Grenfell Mission.

An epidemic of distemper resulted in an acute shortage of sled dogs in Newfoundland and the Labrador coast. The dogs were donated by Norman D. Vaughan of Hamilton, Arctic explorer and member of the Byrd expedition.

New Lindy Death Data Promised

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—Private Detective Julius B. Braun today promised "world astounding developments" in the Lindbergh case.

"We can identify the man whose footprints were recorded at the spot where the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was found and who never was questioned in the case," he said. "We hope to find, any day now, another man very definitely connected with the kidnaping but never questioned."

Braun revealed that Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, widow of the man executed for the crime, gave him "one of our best leads" when she returned from Europe early in August.

While abroad, Mrs. Hauptmann visited and consoled the mother of Bruno Hauptmann, the phlegmatic German carpenter who still protesting his innocence, was executed in the New Jersey electric chair for the murder of baby Lindbergh.

Callahan Raps B. U. Professor

Denies Graft Paid On Road Jobs

State Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan hit back today at Professor William T. Sutcliffe of Boston University who charged that graft had been paid in connection with construction of Massachusetts highways.

Professor Sutcliffe made his charge in an address delivered at the annual convention of the American Association of State Highway officials at the Hotel Statler.

"Not one scintilla of evidence of graft has ever been produced against the department of public works while I have been commissioner," Callahan said. "Publicity seekers are prone to make wild charges which have no basis in fact."

Callahan pointed out that highway work done by the state department of public works had been highly praised at the same convention by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, and other nationally known road experts.

Mrs. Muriel Kovalsky, 43-year-old graduate nurse and dental hygienist, was found dead in the bathtub of her apartment in Peterboro street, Back Bay, today.

Her husband, Louis, 51, who has been ill for four months, and whom she had been nursing nights after working all day, made the tragic discovery shortly before 3 a. m., he told police.

Medical Examiner William E. Brickley, after an autopsy, stated death was caused by accidental drowning. Mrs. Kowalsky suffered a concussion of the brain, probably by falling in the tub, Dr. Brickley said. Her scalp was lacerated.

Hartford Truck Strike Is Ended

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 1 (INS)—Hartford's 24-day-old strike of 1400 truck drivers was at an end today pending an arbitration move.

Thousands Die As Japs Fail To Gain Inch

Shanghai Big Push Stalls as Chinese Fight Back

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1 (INS)—Thousands of Japanese and Chinese troops were reported killed and wounded today as they battled back and forth at Lotien in the fiercest engagement of the entire Shanghai war.

Fighting raged over a rain-soaked terrain a few miles northwest of here as Japanese forces furiously tried to surround and annihilate large concentrations of Chinese troops.

Chinese officials claimed their main defense lines remained intact in the face of the wild Japanese onslaught.

JAPS HARASSED

Chinese troop concentrations stationed at Liuho, near Lotien, were chief objective of the Japanese attacks.

At the same time severe fighting occurred in Shanghai as Chinese raiding parties and snipers harassed Japanese by tunneling and sharp-shooting operations in the North Station sector.

The Chinese made many surprise attacks in this area and claimed they had regained much ground previously captured by the Nipponese in their "big push."

Chinese air fighters shot down two Japanese bombing planes from a reading squad which caused scattered damage in the Canton area this morning.

MORE RAIDS PLANNED

Japan was reported today ready to warn foreign powers to evacuate Nanking completely or face danger of more air raids.

Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, commander of the United States Yangtze river patrol, ordered the patrol ship Guam to Wuhu, 30 miles up the river, to give the crew leave after weeks of confinement aboard ship off Nanking.

Yarnell Condemns Bombing of Railway

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sharp condemnation of Japanese bombing of Hankow and the Hankow-Canton Railway on September 26 came today from Rear Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet.

A Japanese spokesman had said the Japanese navy was informed by United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson that all Americans and other foreigners had been evacuated from Hankow and surrounding territory by noon of September 26.

This Admiral Yarnell flatly denied, saying Ambassador Johnson issued no such information, but instead told the Japanese that foreigners would be evacuated from Hankow and the surrounding vicinity after September 26.

China-France Pact Reported Under Way

TOKYO, Oct. 1 (INS) — China and France may shortly sign a non-aggression pact with terms similar to the recent Sino-Soviet mutual assistance accord, Japanese reports from Shanghai said today.

According to Japanese, this anti-Fascist bloc would include France, Soviet Russia and China, and might have far-reaching effects on the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Observers wondered if reports of the projected Sino-French agreement might hasten formation of an Italo-Japanese front against the Communist International.

China Asks League To Tag Japs Aggressors

GENEVA, Oct. 1 (AP)—China today flatly asked the League of Nations advisory committee on the Sino-Japanese war, on which the United States is a consultative member, to declare her a victim of Japanese aggression.

The request embodied the draft resolution submitted to the committee by Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate to the league, and demanded that the committee:

1—Condemn violation of international law and contractural obligations of which the resolution accuses Japan;

2—Condemn the illegal blockade of the Chinese coasts;

Tokyo Admits Sinking Chinese Junks

TOKYO, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Navy ministry admitted today that Japanese warships attacked Chinese junks in South China waters. A number of junks have been reported sunk and several hundred persons drowned under shelling by Japanese warcraft.

The attacks, the ministry's statement declared, were necessary in self-defense, when the junks "used arms in resisting inspectors from Japanese vessels."

Roosevelt Tour Greeted by Sun

LAKE CRESCENT, Wash. Oct. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt and his party, awaking after a night of torrential rainfall, found the sun breaking through and the storm blowing out, and made plans to resume a motor trip around the Olympic peninsula.

The President breakfasted on brook trout caught from peninsula streams, and the start westward was set for 9:15 a. m.

On the morning program, before reaching Lake Quinault, near the southern end of the loop, for luncheon, was a 12-minute stop at Camp Snyder, CCC center, nine miles west of here.

At Sappo, farther west, a brief stop was to be made during which a crack logging crew was to "top" a big tree within view of the presidential party.

Britain Acts In Holy Land

Strikes to End Arab Terror Wave

JERUSALEM, Oct. 1 (AP)—Britain struck with an iron fist today to crush a new wave of terrorism in the holy land. In a sweeping offensive mandate, authorities outlawed the Arab higher committee and started rounding up its influential members.

With telephonic communication from the city suspended and roads heavily guarded, police carried out their large scale operations before dawn.

Silently they surrounded houses of Arab leaders and searched them one after the other. Dr. Hussein Khalidi, mayor of Jerusalem, and Fuad Saba, secretary of the higher committee, were reported to have been seized and taken aboard the British cruiser Sussex at Haifa.

The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, head of the higher committee, was deprived of his office, and rumor was he had been arrested. (There was a report in Cairo, Egypt, that the Mufti had fled in the Mosque of Omar and defied authorities to enter and arrest him.) The manager of an Arabian bank was taken into custody.

Leaders caught in the police dragnet may be deported to Perim Island in the Red Sea.

Terrorism in this trouble-riven land, sacred alike to Jews, Christians and Arabs, reached one of its most ferocious climaxes when the British Commissioner of Galilee and his bodyguard were assassinated Sunday at Nazareth.

All of Palestine's land frontiers were guarded and large troop detachments were on duty at Allenby bridge and other crossings over the River Jordan.

Cholera Menace Gains In Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1 (AP)—There were nearly 2000 known cases of cholera today among Chinese living in the International Settlement, and the epidemic was increasing at the rate of 100 cases daily.

Tokyo's Defense Of Raids Meets U. S. Rebuff

By ROBERT G. NIXON

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—The United States today emphatically rejected Japan's "justification" of its air raids on China's defenseless civilian, non-combatants.

The American government, determining to throw its full moral weight against what it considers flagrant violation of civilized conduct, holds:

1—Air raid on cities are "unwarranted and contrary to principles of law and of humanity."

2—Regardless of Japan's repeated assurance she is attacking purely military objectives, if civilians reside in the areas "no amount of solicitude . . . is effective toward assuring the safety of any persons or any property within the area of such operations."

3—The American government can not, under any circumstance, countenance continuance of bombing attacks on defenseless civilians.

This adamant stand, International News Service learned, had been communicated to the Japanese government through its Ambassador to Washington, Hirosi Saito.

If the indiscriminate aerial bombing raids on non-combatants continue, as declared by Japan's court reply to the vigorous American protests, these possibilities are contemplated.

NEUTRALITY ACT SEEN

1—Invocation of the neutrality act, officially bringing the Sino-Japanese conflict into the open.

2—Dispatch of a new and more emphatic diplomatic note to Tokyo.

Secretary of State Hull emphasized in answer to Tokyo's declaration that the air raids against Nanking are necessary because it "is the most important strategic base of military operations for the Chinese forces" that the American protest reflects the "permanent American attitude."

Duke and Wally Attend Paris Exposition

Windsors Laugh and Wave to Throngs On Grounds

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1937)

PARIS, Oct. 1 (INS)—Laughing and chatting gaily, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor made their first official appearance together today when they visited the American, British and Canadian pavilions at the Paris exposition.

They thereby indirectly informed the world they do not intend to remain indefinitely in the background.

In fact, by signing the British pavilion's Gold Book and in view of the semi-official character of the tour, conducted by Captain R. E. J. Moore, British assistant exposition commissioner, the visit was interpreted as meaning the Duke and Duchess shortly will take up a position in accordance with their rank.

VISIT AMERICAN SECTION

In deference to the Duchess' nationality, the couple first visited the American pavilion.

They arrived in the same American-made limousine which the Duke gave to her before their marriage. Her initials "W. W. S." were still on the doors.

Frederick Sterling, American exposition commissioner, escorted them through the pavilion.

They were keenly interested in the display of American glassware and dishes, and also in a bust by the American sculptor, Wilmer Hoffman.

The Duke was most animated throughout the visit, talking almost constantly and asking countless questions. The Duchess walked slightly behind, but he turned time and again to speak to her.

WAVE TO CROWD

From the American pavilion the couple obtained their first full view of the exposition, and expressed admiration for the impressive German and Russian pavilions. They waved cordially to an immense crowd which greeted them with cries of "God bless you!"

Captain Moore officially welcomed the couple at the British pavilion. Both were interested in a glass case in which were displayed the coronation robes of a duchess and a marquis.

"That's very well done, don't you think?" remarked the Duchess. "It's most dignified."

"I certainly do," agreed the Duke. "It is extremely well done."

The couple admired hunting clothes and an exhibition of British tweeds, and seemed to share a secret joke when they looked over a display of "gray dawn" English China.

GREETS VETERAN

"Haven't I seen you during the war?" asked the Duke when a bemedaled British veteran saluted him.

"Yes, sir," replied the soldier, and the Duke then shook hands with a veteran for the first time since he greeted his war comrades regularly as part of his duties at Edward VII.

On their way out, the Duchess signed the Gold Book as "Wallis Windsor" and the Duke used his official title. Both refused a drink, stating:

"It's ahead of schedule— another time."

Not 'Dime' Love Now

Boston Evening American Photo

It was "love on a dime" when these youthful Malden sweethearts eloped and were married seven weeks ago, but now the 16-year-old bride, the former Eleanor Hodgkins, has just been left a $22,000 legacy. She says she'll stick to her husband, Vincent C. Cottrell, although her parents are seeking annulment of the marriage.

$22,000 Willed Malden Girl, 16, Who Eloped

Things continue to keep lively the life of 16-year-old Eleanor Hodgkins of Malden, and today a $22,000 legacy fell into her lap.

Only seven weeks ago the former Malden high school sophomore eloped with Vincent C. Cottrell of Judson street, Malden, three years her senior.

Ten days ago her father filed suit for annulment in Middlesex probate court, alleging that the bride and bridegroom had fibbed about their ages in obtaining the marriage license.

So now Eleanor (or Mrs. Cottrell) is in a tangle with her dad, and she insists she'll fight to remain with Vincent; but the $22,000 legacy she will receive will not come to her, apparently, until she is 21.

Meanwhile she has left school and is working as a salesgirl in a Malden store.

The legacy to Eleanor comes in the will of a graduate to whom she was a favorite—Charles H. Maxwell, executive in a New York department store, who died last January, leaving an estate of approximately $48,000.

Out of the estate her father is to receive $2000 as one of the other bequests.

Hoover Speaks Here Oct. 25

Former President Herbert Hoover will be the principal speaker at the semi-annual meeting of the Massachusetts Republican Club, Christian A. Herter, club president, announced today.

"There is no particular subject on which Hoover will speak," Herter declared. "The meeting will take place about October 25."

Political observers, however, foresaw probable discussion of his recent proposal for a general conference next spring of all Republican leaders.

It will be Hoover's first visit to this city since he came here during the 1928 presidential campaign.

Copeland Sees New Deal in '40

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Senator Copeland, of New York, predicted today that the New Deal would be invincible at the polls in 1940, with its presidential candidate selected from among President Roosevelt, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and John L. Lewis.

The prospective candidates likely will be picked in that order "according to the present outlook," he told reporters.

The only chance of beating the New Deal eventually, he added, is through organization of a third party.

"I think a New Deal victory is inevitable in the next election, so far as we can see now," Copeland asserted. "Unless we have a terrible crash, violent inflation, or an unforeseen upheaval, the crowd will go right along in 1940."

Colgate Student, Blind, Wins Honor

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 1 (INS)—Michael Supa, Colgate University's blind sophomore from Binghamton, today was the proud possessor of the first Ehenherr Dodge prize, given for excellence in studies.

One thousand students cheered as Supa's police dog, his faithful "seeing eye," led him to the rostrum to receive the prize, a sum of money.

Chicago Rents Up, Moving Decreases

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—The landlord raised the rent an aggregate of millions today for thousands of Chicago apartment dwellers.

It was moving day, but real estate agents said the rent increases caused many families to smaller apartments to "stay out," resulting in 25 to 30 per cent fewer removals than a year ago.

Sponsor for New Destroyer Named

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS)—Miss Betty S. Trippe of Park avenue, New York City, today was designated by Secretary of the Navy Swanson as sponsor of the U. S. S. Trippe, which was named in honor of her late cousin, Lieutenant John Trippe, U. S. M., a hero in the war with pirates at Tripoli in 1804.

The new destroyer Trippe is to be launched in Boston February 1, 1938.

Retire at 60 Aim Of Langone Bill

Retirement of state and municipal employes at the age of 60 after 10 years of continuous service is provided in the terms of a bill filed at the State House today by Senator Joseph A. Langone, Jr., of Boston.

The retirement pay is set by Senator Langone at three-quarters of the annual salary received at the time of retirement. The bill excepts members of the Judiciary, who may now retire upon reaching the age of 70 at three-quarters pay.

Former Officer Guilty of Theft

WORCESTER, Oct. 1—Josiah F. Orchard, 46, of Irving street, Framingham, former Metropolitan District police officer and salesman, pleaded guilty in district court here today to a charge of larceny of approximately $400.

He was given a three months' suspended sentence, placed on probation for a year and ordered to make restitution.

15 City Workers Quit on Pension

Concluding long terms of service, 15 city employes today went on the retired list with pensions after each had worked for the municipal government more than 30 years.

The longest record was held by Edward L. Moulton of Idaho street, Dorchester, who served as senior engineer in the street lay-out department, to which he had been attached an even half century.

Straw Vote Poll Widens Lead Of Curley

First Tabulation To Be Announced On Sunday

By FRANK K. REILLY

Former Governor James M. Curley, leading contender in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser mayoralty straw vote balloting, today increased his lead over District Attorney William J. Foley, his nearest competitor.

Former Representative Alfred Santosuosso of Hyde Park remained in third place in the tabulation and School Committeeman Maurice J. Tobin was fourth.

Fifth place was held again by former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols and President John I. Fitzgerald of the Boston City Council was his nearest rival.

Carleton L. Brett of Dorchester, the Social Justice candidate, made a slightly better showing today than at any time recently.

A very light vote was cast for former State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook and Charles L. Mauser, Republican candidates, and there were no ballots for Ollie Archer Hood, the Communist nominee.

First returns, containing a complete report of all votes in this straw ballot from its inception until noon on Saturday, will be published in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

These returns will indicate which of the 10 mayoralty contenders are the outstanding candidates for election as successor to Mayor Mansfield.

All readers of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser who desire to have their votes counted and credited to their candidate in the initial returns to be published on Sunday are urged to place their ballots in the mail at once. Tabulation ends at noon on Saturday for first returns. Mail your ballot today.

Coroner Clears R. I. Slaying Suspect

Says New Bedford Man Had No Part in Dr. Webster Death

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1 (AP)—Coroner Conrad K. Straus today said he had reached the "conclusion" that John E. Ennis of Cominicut and New Bedford, Mass., now held in Providence county jail for action by the grand jury, "has no connection with the slaying of Dr. Webster."

Ennis was arrested by the Providence police on September 15, and two days later was held without bail in Sixth District court on a charge of killing "with malice aforethought" Dr. George W. Webster who was slain at his home, in Emeline street, July 16.

"Three of Ennis' acquaintances have testified that he told them he murdered Webster in an attempted robbery," said Coroner Straus today. "All the evidence obtained in the inquest up to this point does not indicate that the motive for the slaying was robbery."

The three acquaintances now held in the men's and women's reformatories as material witnesses, are Manuel Joseph Sylvia, 32; Mrs. Ruth Louise Seymour, 21, and Priscilla Mabel (Wright) Lombardi, 25, all giving their address as River street, Maynard, Mass.

Since his arrest, Ennis has maintained that he was innocent of any complicity in the Webster murder. He admitted to a New Bedford detective during his questioning here that he did tell these persons he shot Dr. Webster, but added:

"I was just trying to make a big fellow out of myself."

Referring to Ennis's statements to the three material witnesses, Coroner Straus, who has questioned Ennis and the witness, said:

"Manuel Sylvia, one of the three material witnesses, put more holes in Ennis's story than an attorney could in cross-examination."

Open-Air Dedham Movie Protested

Residents of Dedham today had protested the proposed establishment of a $35,000 open-air motion picture theater here by the Mavis-Krome Corporation of America.

Appearing before the town selectmen, they asserted that granting of the petition to build the theater on the Providence superhighway would create a disturbance to the institutions and residents of Dedham.

Tractor, 2 Autos Hammond Assets

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Two Rolls Royce automobiles, models of 1926 and 1928, and a caterpillar tractor were listed among the assets of Harrie Hammond, son of the late John Hays Hammond, in a voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed today.

He reported known assets of only $3,926.12 against liabilities of $2,644,904.43.

American Killed In Athens Crash

ATHENS, Oct. 1 (AP)—An American traveler and a British flying officer lost their lives today when the British Imperial Airways flying boat Courtier, sister ship of the Atlantic survey planes Cambria and Caledonia, sank today in landing on Phaleron Bay, near here.

The bodies of Roy Henderson, the American, and Wing Commander D. Acland of the British Air force, were recovered. Their home addresses were not available immediately.

Seven other passengers were rescued alive from the sunken flying boat. Five of them were suffering from injuries. The five-man crew also escaped.

Held in Methuen Gun Death

METHUEN, Oct. 1—James A. Sayer, Jr., 25, New Hampshire lunch cart owner, was today held in $1000 bail for the grand jury in the fatal shooting of Leo Lemay, 22-year-old Lawrence bartender, in front of the public library there last month.

Sayer, who lives in Salem Depot, N. H., was arraigned on a manslaughter charge before District Judge Albion G. Pierce.

At the same time, the court dismissed a manslaughter charge against Sayer's countryman George A. Riopelle, 38, Concord street, Lawrence, who at first admitted firing the fatal shotgun blasts at Lemay.

Riopelle was held in $1000 bail as an accessory after the fact.

Lemay was slain while talking to Methuen police officers, who had hailed an automobile in which he and two companions were being pursued by Sayer and Riopelle.

Registration High For Mayoral Fight

Further indications of a hot mayoralty election were given today as registration in Boston exceeded that for the last city polling.

Fight Between O'Hara, Quinn Flares Again

Governor Asks Race Baron Many Questions

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1—After a brief lull in their six-weeks-old battle, the fight between Governor Robert Quinn and Walter E. O'Hara flared into the open again today.

O'Hara in a statement declared he would stay in "Rhode Island as long as God gives me health" and that he would continue "the fight to show up" Governor Quinn.

The chief executive shortly afterward released a statement issued by O'Hara. He declared O'Hara is "trying to be to Rhode Island what Al Capone was to Chicago."

In the battle between the governor and O'Hara Governor Quinn announced his intention to drive the trackman-publisher out of the state.

HURLS MANY QUESTIONS

"I'm still in control of many corporations in Massachusetts and these corporations would not allow attorneys such as those who hold public office in Rhode Island or crooked politicians to act for them," O'Hara declared.

He added that he would meet Governor Quinn and have him prove "he is as honest as I am."

In reply, Governor Quinn issued the following statement:

"Who is O'Hara? Where did he come from? Why did he leave Fall River? Was he a Democrat there or was he a Republican?

"Why did everybody doing business with the Monks administration (former Mayor Monks of Fall River) have to see O'Hara first?

"What was the financial condition of Fall River when they got through with it?

"What sources provided O'Hara with money to do his dirty work? Who drove him out of Fall River? Who did he tell he cares for nothing but money and that money came ahead of everything—even God?

PROMISES MORE DATA

"Why does he try to intimidate or bribe reporters? Why is he surrounded by gunmen and racketeers?

"Why did he, through his defunct Pawtucket Star, insult and ridicule Judge (William E.) Connell (10th district court) and then humbly apologize and admit his statements were false and malicious?

"These statements I will answer in the coming days and I will also tell a great many more interesting facts about this man who is trying to be to Rhode Island what Al Capone was to Chicago."

Hubby Gets Alimony

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mild mannered little Elwin Elmer Pope, 69-year-old widower who remarried with the understanding he was to do the housework and his bride the bread-winning, looked today for lodgings where he might live comfortably on $35 monthly alimony.

His alimony, however, thus far is only temporary. It depends on the outcome of the divorce suit of his wife, the former Ethel Ellis, a school teacher who earns $2400 a year. Pope said he was hopeful of permanent adequate support.

The couple was married at Phoenix, Ariz., February 10, 1931. Pope said that since then he has washed the pots and pans, driven his wife to school and put up her lunch.

"She has never cooked a meal, and she has never complained about mine," said Pope. "I guess I always cooked the things the way she liked them best"—his voice was choked with subdued emotion.

Mrs. Pope, in her divorce complaint, charged that when she turned down the fire under a pot on the stove, Pope angrily threw her upon a couch and declared he, not she, was running the house.

Pope and he and his wife reached their understanding before marriage because he was in poor health.

Mrs. Pope, however, accused her husband of taking a bottle of whiskey to bed with him and then having violent nightmares.

$44,375 Over-Taxes Go Back to Estate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS)—The estate of Norman E. Mack, former Buffalo, N. Y., publisher, and for many years a power in the Democratic party, has been allowed federal income tax over-assessments totaling $44,375, Guy T. Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, announced.

Divided $20,602 on his 1934 tax return and $18,772 for 1935, the over assessments resulted from the allowance of additional deductions.

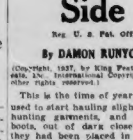
The Brighter Side

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

This is the time of year when we used to start hauling slightly musty hunting garments, and mildewed boots, out of dark closets, where they had been placed in the fall that we would not find them again, and oiling up blunderbusses of various gauges, with sanguinary designs on the birds and beasts of the forest.



Damon Runyon

About this time, too, we commenced to feel great concern for the welfare of certain canines, to which we had given no great thought since the close of the last hunting season. We would be hoping that they were in good health, and spirits.

Dogs are essential to most phases of the manly art of hunting, but in the days when we were a mighty nimrod, it was somewhat inconvenient to harbor setters, pointers, beagles, or springers, in New York apartment. They took up too much room in the beds. They led to domestic discord.

The last hunting dog we tried to keep in an apartment was a coon dog that we brought up from South Georgia. He liked the apartment fine. It was much better than the quarters to which he was accustomed.

TOUGH ON NEIGHBORS

He was all right, except in summer, when you have to keep your windows open in New York. The wind would sometimes veer in from the Jersey meadows, bringing with it that high, gamey odor, characteristic of the Jersey breeze.

Our dog would get a whiff of this odor, and would rush to the windows, and start giving tongue, thinking he was on a hot trail.

Eventually we evolved a great system, with our hunting dogs. We planted them at strategic points in the sections that we used to infest in the hunting season by the simple expedient of making a present of a dog to a friend in each section.

PERFECT SYSTEM

We gave a setter that was a corker on grouse to a pal up in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania, and a pointer that knew all about pheasant and quail, to a fellow near Lancaster. We gave a brace of rabbit dogs to a lady in New Jersey, and a swell retriever to a man on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, outside Chesapeake City.

We bestowed our canine bounty on friends in Virginia, Georgia and Florida, so when a-hunting we did go, we had the use of a dog without the overhead between the hunting seasons, and the inconvenience of toting the hounds around from one place to another.

Moreover, we won the reputation for great generosity among our friends, who came to love their dogs.

The only man that ever indicated any dissatisfaction with the arrangement was a Mr. James F. Dougherty, of Leiperville, Delaware County, Pa., known as the Baron of Leiperville.

He let out a mild beef when a lady pointer that we sent him with kind regards gave birth to 15 children in one edition, and then bit the good baron when he tried to coddle the offspring.

A HUNTER SURRENDERS

We do not remember just exactly when it was we found our interest in the assassination of the woodland fauna abating. It may possibly have been the day we hit the uplands of the Eastern Shore when we suddenly discovered that a blunderbuss that we had been led to believe weighed but six pounds, really heftet 20.

More like, however, it was the bitter cold morning we were in a sink box on Chesapeake Bay, reclining on our back, with a zero breeze drifting little wavelets of ice water into the lines of our countenance at intervals, as we hoped for the approach of a job lot of canvasback. That was the morning we got to thinking.

"Here you are," we thought, "freezing, and hungry, and miserable, and running the chance of catching your death of cold, and for what? For what are you lying in this ridiculous posture, suffering this agony?

"For the sake of killing a few poor wildfowl that never did you any harm, and that may have little children, or aged parents, waiting at home for them.

"Well, suppose you kill a lot of ducks. What are you going to do with them? You know the wife doesn't like you to bring home ducks because it is an awful nuisance to pick, and clean, and cook anyway.

HUNTS IN COLONY

"Besides," we thought, "you are none too fond of wild duck, anyway. You prefer chicken. What a sucker you are to be here. And those nitwits you made the trip with. They ought to be locked up.

"No wonder your nerves are in bad shape listening to their gabble. That left foot is probably frozen. If ever you let yourself in for this sort of thing again you ought to have your head examined."

Yes, that may have been the day. But whatever the day, the thought of the tang of the open no longer seems to have the old thrill for us. When we think of it at all, we go over to the Colony, or to Baron Kriendler's and order a grouse that somebody shot from an easy chair in Scotland, and laugh right out loud as we discuss it in comfort and reflect on the boys in the sink boxes.

Lax Handling Of Criminals Hurts Youth

Young Offenders Usually Become Worse in Time

This is the sixth of a series of articles by Harold A. Wolff, noted criminologist, on problems confronting Massachusetts as a result of the recent wave of sex crime. The articles are appearing in the Boston Evening American. The final discussion will appear in the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday.

By HAROLD A. WOLFF

Any progress towards reducing the amount of crime must involve radical changes in the treatment of juvenile offenders, according to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who recently made an exhaustive study of the rapidly increasing number of crimes committed by young people.

"One-fifth of our most deadly outlaws, our murderers, our machine-gunning desperadoes, are little beyond childhood," the head G-Man pointed out in a recent address.

This means that there are over 700,000 American boys and girls under 21 years of age who have begun criminal careers.

In the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, over 60 per cent of the juvenile offenders who are brought before our courts and sentenced to state institutions, or released on parole subsequently commit more serious crimes which return them to the toils of the law, according to the records of the Massachusetts Department of Correction.

Almost every notorious criminal in the state began his career long before he was 20.

SCORES LAX METHODS

Sentimentality and laxity are the main characteristics of our present method of dealing with these juvenile offenders. Because of their tender age, many of them escape with sentences which are in no way commensurate with their crimes. Sobbing parents and kindly clergymen are constantly interfering with the juvenile courts in their attempt to handle these cases. Not infrequently influential politicians bring pressure on the court, in the hope of having the case dropped or placed on file.

At present all criminals under 20 years of age convicted of minor crimes are sent either to the school at Lyman, or Shirley, or the reformatory at Concord. In these institutions are found all types of young criminals ranging from first offenders to hardened little gangsters with long records of previous paroles and probations. Some of these have been in and out of these institutions several times before.

BECOME CRIME SCHOOLS

As a result of the more or less haphazard intermingling of hardened criminals with first offenders these institutions have become virtually schools of crime in which the older and more experienced boys teach the younger ones the tricks of the trade.

So prevalent is this state of affairs that in the underworld the Massachusetts reformatory is known as "the academy," because it is there that many of our criminals have received their education in the ways of crime.

Thus from the available evidence it would seem that to the handling of juvenile offenders in almost nine cases out of ten we are not only unsuccessful in reforming these potential criminals but actually help to launch them on their careers of crime.

Accordingly any serious program of reform of the administration of criminal justice in this state must provide for the segregation of the various types of criminals, so that the more hardened offenders and those guilty of the more serious crimes are separated from the others.

Seventh of this vital series, analyzing prison and criminal problems and conditions in this state, will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. Follow this series through to next Sunday's concluding installments in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Love Vanished With Wealth

Judge Rejects Wife's Separation Plea

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—A wife's dissatisfaction with her husband's reduced income is no cause for granting her a separation, Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman ruled today.

He refused to grant Mrs. Nola Locke Mandel a separation from Henry Mandel, once wealthy builder.

Mandel said his wife lived luxuriously on the money he provided, at such places as the Westchester Country Club, Mayfair House and in Stamford, Conn., until he went into bankruptcy in 1933.

Mrs. Mandel charged her husband with cruelty and abandonment.

Chesterfield County police awaited the results f a physical examination to check the story of a youth hoked as Floyd Smith, 19, whom Police Chief C. W. Smith said was held on a charge of attempting to attack the child.

Smith said the youth, who was placed in Henrico County jail last night after the little girl was found unconscious on the edge of a wooded swamp yesterday, denied he had attacked the child.

Probe New Clue In Ross Kidnap

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—An attempted kidnaping apparently by the same gang which abducted Charles S. Ross, 71-year-old retired manufacturer, was investigated today by the state's attorney's office.

It preceded the Ross kidnaping by 48 hours, and the intended victim, just as in the Ross case, was followed from a hotel in suburban Sycamore.

The technique of the kidnapers was the same in both cases, police said.

The finding of a body in the Kankakee river near Valparaiso, Ind., yesterday provoked speculation it might have been that of Ross, but the victim was subsequently identified as a Gary, Ind., tavern operator.

New U. S. Vessel To Be Safest Liner on Seas

Contract for Ship to Replace Leviathan Is Accepted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rehabilitation of America's merchant marine was under way today following acceptance of a bid to construct a new liner to replace the Leviathan in the North Atlantic service.

The bid—$15,750,000 on an adjusted price basis—was submitted by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation and accepted last night by the maritime commission.

The commission granted the operating company a differential construction subsidy of 33 1-3 per cent of the cost of the vessel.

This subsidy will take care of the difference in labor and other construction costs as related to the traditionally lower scale in foreign shipyards.

In size, the new liner will fall below the figures for England's Queen Mary or France's Normandie, but, said Maritime Board Chairman Kennedy, "we will have the finest and safest liner on the seas."

The liner will be slightly larger than its companion ships of the United States Lines—the Manhattan and Washington. She will have a load-draft displacement of about 24,000 tons, will be 723 feet long and 92 feet beam.

There will be accommodations for 3200 passengers and a crew of 630.

Endeavour Home; Reveal Thrilling Battle With Sea

GOSPORT, England, Oct. 1 (AP)—The racing yacht Endeavour I, proud and defiant, reached the slip of her berth today, bringing back from the Atlantic one of the most thrilling sagas of the sea this historic English port town has ever known.

For the last 20 miles of the voyage, up through the Needles and down the Solent, Capt. Heard had nothing to do. The yacht Viva II, from which he cut loose off Nantucket Sept. 15, had picked him up again and towed him home.

Two hours before he arrived Gosport was exulting. The quayside was strung with Stars and Stripes and Union Jacks. All imaginable types of craft in full dress rig lined the channel. The British warships moored across the channel dressed the rails in salute, a welcome home to a dainty but seaworthy craft from the mightiest battlewagons afloat.

Heard, acclaimed as a modest hero, conceded the hurricane that tossed the Endeavour I about was "pretty bad," but minimized the fury of the storm and his own narrow escape.

"I was not washed clear of the boat at all," he said; "just over the side."

His crew said, however, that the captain was pulled back just as he was dangling in the water. The storm hit them at 10:30 p. m., September 13, the sailors said, and lasted throughout the night.

"We did not know we had lost the Viva until next morning," Heard said, "and then we could not rouse anybody because of the limited range of our wireless."

Smiling Joe Uglow, the second cook of the Endeavour, told a graphic story of the crew's being imprisoned in the hurricane-tossed steel hull for nine hours, but he insisted the most dismaying moment of the voyage was when they discovered their last cake of rum was just a tank of lard.

"We were at the mercy of the waves for nine hours," Uglow said, "while water rushed in on us. We were just a ship of steel—under water most of the time—with gigantic waves breaking over us.

"We worked frantically at the pumps, the sweat rolling off us, during the nine-hour hurricane which none of us will ever forget. During the whole time it was impossible to even go on deck. It was useless to try to pilot the ship—she was completely out of control.

"It was unthinkable for anyone to lie down, and, even if we had wanted to, it was physically impossible. We were thrown about like ninepins.

"At last the hurricane passed over and it was possible for the men to go on deck, but the seas were still so rough it was necessary for them to be attached to lifelines and lashed to the wheel. Even then they were waist deep in water for hours."

Toward the end of the voyage rations were getting low and the crew nursed their last cans of rum. Finally the moment came when the case was opened for grog for all hands.

"And we found," Uglow sadly said, "just a tank of lard."

Science Pierces Birth Control Mystery

Electric Waves Detect Time of Motherhood Possibility

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 1 (AP)—Electrical detection of the unsolved mystery of birth control, the brief time in which a woman can become a mother, was reported today from the Yale medical school.

This period, the medical profession has agreed, lasts from a few hours to a day or two, once a month, but when it should be expected is a matter of sharp disagreement.

The Yale electrical detection is something new in science, the third report of its kind in the last two years.

VERIFIES BEHAVIOR

An operation, which had to be performed for other reasons, verified the telltale behavior of an electric current. The story is told today in Science, official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by H. S. Burr, L. K. Musselman, Dorothy S. Barton and Naomi B. Kelly, of the departments of neuro-anatomy and obstetrics and gynecology.

While a woman was waiting for her operation, medical attendants took the voltages of the very small electric currents which flow from all human beings. These are picked up easily by pasting tiny electrodes on the skin or other surfaces.

One of these wires was connected with an area beneath which the pelvic bones join. The other recorded the current from one of the reproductive organs.

Currents were recorded in millionths of a volt, and for several days they showed a uniform difference between the two areas. One area was positive, electrically, and the other negative.

TURNED POSITIVE

One day about noon the negative area turned positive. It took a comparatively big electrical jump to about eighty millionths of a volt. This occurred at the time of month when previous medical examinations had fixed the probable date of possibility of pregnancy.

Verification came the day after the electrical change. The woman was operated upon and it was found that an ovum had been released. The release, it was further established, had coincided with the electrical signs on the exterior of the body.

'Chute Crash Fatal to Girl

Battled for Life in 1700-Ft. Fall

FARMVILLE, Va., Oct. 1 (AP)—Gloria Allen, 17, of Batavia, N. Y., died today of injuries suffered last week in a fall with a ripped parachute.

The pretty professional 'chute jumper died at a hospital here without regaining consciousness after a relapse last weekend. Two blood transfusions were made in an effort to save her life.

Gloria fell from a height of 1700 feet. The fabric of the parachute ripped but she maneuvered herself five times under the 'chute to block her fall.

The 'chute collapsed the last time when she was 12 feet from the ground. Both legs were broken and she suffered shock and other injuries.

Mrs. Mary Barker Dead in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mary Metcalf Perin Barker, wife of Joseph Warren Barker, dean of the faculty of engineering of Columbia University is dead here today.

The author of two handbooks on etiquette, she had given lectures upon that subject at many colleges and at the Coast Guard Academy. She was the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. George L. Perin of Boston and was born in Tokyo.

Snow in Rockies Stalls Traffic

BERTHOUD PASS, Colo., Oct. 1 (AP)—A transcontinental bus and more than two dozen automobiles were stalled in a sudden storm that left 16 inches of damp snow on the highway today through this slit in the Rockie Mountains. Bus passengers and autoists reached safety at Berthoud Inn.

Snow also swirled about Pike's Peak.

Soviets Execute 19 More in Purge

MOSCOW, Oct. 1 (INS)—Nineteen more alleged "wreckers" today were executed in the protracted Soviet purge—three in Crimea, six in the Kolushnikijsky district, three in the Cherepchevsky district, and several at Millerovsky, in the Black Sea region.

Bright Prospects For Quest Winner

Helen Hughes Quiet, Sincere Type With Screen Possibilities

and they should all be greatly encouraged if they plan to make acting their career.

The screen tests will be shown, beginning today, at the screen of Loew's State Theater, and will continue for one week. The screenings will be twice daily—at 2:20 in the afternoon and 8:30 in the evening.

And now—more about our winner, Helen Hughes.

She has just begun her third year at Emerson College. But she was born quite a long way from Boston—a long way from a city anywhere near the size of Boston.

Helen was born in the tiny town of Amity, Me. She was born into more or less the same circumstances as Calvin Coolidge—in a general store owned by her father, whose name is Elias R. Hughes.

Parents Anxious for Helen to Make Good in Her Acting Career

When she was four years old, her family moved to Houlton, Maine, a little town of about 2000 inhabitants, which has been her home ever since.

Her father, she will tell you with a little smile, is a farmer. He owns about six large farms in and around Houlton. He also deals in wild land —which means, Helen explains, that he buys pulp wood and sells it to paper factories.

Both her mother and father are anxious for Helen to succeed in her chosen career, which is, and always has been, acting.

Before she came to attend school in Boston, she gave readings in the Augusta state House, and won several interstate contests.

She was awarded a small scholarship at Emerson College for winning a Maine intercounty oratory contest.

She prefers to play tragic roles rather than light, comedy roles—because she believes she is "better at tragedy."

As a type, she is best described as sweet, unassuming, sincere, appealing.

Right now, she is so overjoyed, so excited at the idea of going to Hollywood, that the most expressive word she can utter is simply "Oh!"

The first thing she did, when she was told of the judges' decision, was telephone her mother in Maine. Her mother said "Oh!" too —but her father, who was standing by, said:

"Tell her to go ahead—and make the most of the opportunity."

Meanwhile, the other six young girls are basking in a certain amount of glory, for they have been proclaimed by the judges as "screen possibilities."

Most of them are intensely interested in acting, and have a definite goal in mind.

All Show Fine Talent and Should Reach Goal With Hard Work

Barbara Risdon is at present attending Bryant and Stratton business college—and she hopes to earn enough money some day to put herself through a dramatic school. She has studied dancing for 12 years.

Marjorie Simmons, being only 17, is a senior at Medford high school, and next year she's going to study dramatics.

Janet McNeil, who made her debut last season has attended the Fay Compton school of dramatics in London.

Helen Hurley is attending Emerson College and this summer she worked at the summer theater in Ogunquit, Me.

Jane Charlton graduated from the Choate school, has been a photographer's model, and has had some dramatic training.

And Joan Brown is now at Abbott Academy. Her father was a film actor, and Joan expects and hopes to be one too. Her mother is Mrs. Derby Brown, president of the Copley Art Society. Joan will come home from school for the weekend —so she can go to Loew's State and see her screen test.

50,000 Under Minimum Pay Law Today

The compulsory minimum wage law that brings more than 50,000 Massachusetts working women and children under its protecting wing went into effect today.

Workers in 12 basic industries come under the law immediately. Laundry and dry cleaning, electrical equipment and supplies, retail stores, boot and shoe cut stock and findings, men's clothing and raincoats, candy making, men's furnishings makers, brush makers, women's clothing and corset making.

Within three months, all 22 basic industries of Massachusetts will be brought under the law that then will establish minimum wages for 100,000 women and children.

Employers are expected to accept the provisions of the law voluntarily. There are fines and jail sentences for those who fail to live up to the standards.

The basic minimum rate averages about 30 cents an hour for inexperienced workers, the lowest wage that can be paid is 20 cents an hour for apprentices. In Boston ordinary women store workers, 18 years or older, must receive at least $14.50 a week.

Sleeping Beauty Recovering

WESTFIELD, Oct. 1—Helen L. Buschmann, 28, Pearl street, America's present Number One "Sleeping Beauty" following the death of pretty Patricia Maguire, is well on the way to recovery, it was revealed today.

A one-time Smith College honor student and member of a prominent Westfield family, the girl was struck down by a motor bus at Painesville, January 15, 1928. As a result of the accident she remained in a coma for almost four months, unable to eat, speak, or perform any of the natural functions of life.

Doctors said certain of her brain cells had been damaged, and that she might never fully recover. Cared for by her mother, Mrs. Emma Buchmann, and watched over in Westfield and Northampton sanitariums, Miss Buschmann slowly improved. One by one her faculties returned.

Ban on Shooting Hen Pheasants

Regulations for pheasant hunting during the upland game season which opens on October 20 and extends to November 20, were announced today by the State division of fisheries and game. For the first time in the past several years, it will be illegal to shoot hen pheasants in any part of the state.

Previously, sportsmen in the several counties voted on whether or not to permit taking of hen pheasants and in several countries the regulations were set by the director permitting the shooting of the female birds.

Each hunter this year is limited to two cock pheasants in one day with a total of not more than six for the season and "no person shall have in possession more pheasants than he can legally take under these regulations. There will be no open season in Nantucket county.

Cult School Bars Salute Objector

Taken from the Washington Irving School in Boston because she would not salute the flag, Avis Thomson, 12-year-old Roslindale girl, today found herself barred from classes conducted by her own religious sect, Jehova's witnesses.

Officials of the cult's school at Sudbury, where six child-dissenters against the flag-salute law are now being tutored, refused to admit the Roslindale girl, questioning her eligibility.

At the same time her mother, Mrs. James Thomson, of Poplar street, Roslindale, learned today that her child has not been expelled from the Washington Irving School, where Avis was in the eighth grade, but is in the position of having been "voluntarily withdrawn" by her parents.

Only the school committee has authority to expel a child. Superintendent of Schools Arthur L. Gould informed the mother.

Though Avis has been attending classes for two weeks and escaped notice in the flag-saluting drill until yesterday, she left at her own insistence, the superintendent stated.

Until she has been technically "expelled" by the Boston school committee, she cannot be admitted to the Sudbury school of the militant anti-patriotic sect, according to Herman L. Pollbeck, manager of the Jehova's Witnesses' home.

Harvard Bans Student Guns

Banning of firearms to Harvard students within Harvard precincts became known today when the Harvard Crimson revealed a drastic revision of the old and milder college arms rule, which merely forbade discharge of such weapons.

The ban was imposed with the start of this college year, the Crimson stated, after "tragic deaths on nearby campuses" had led to a Harvard investigation, revealing a tremendous number of lethal weapons in dormitory possession of Harvard students.

Under the new regulation, any student wishing to keep firearms or ammunition in his room must obtain permission of the dean or the house master where the student resides. The permission will be difficult to obtain, it is warned.

There have been several police investigations in the past into students shooting off firearms at Harvard, but with no one injured.

Balloon Replaces Plane, Gets Weather Readings

Boston's weather forecast was helped by a balloon for the first time today.

In the presence of a group of noted weather scientists the little gas bag was sent up from East Boston Airport.

Six miles above the city into the sub-stratosphere the balloon sailed at 6 o'clock this morning. Soon it sent down word from 20,000 feet that temperature was 3 below zero and humidity 40 per cent. It also sent an air pressure reading.

The balloon weighs 13 ounces, the radio sender only 12 ounces.

It will be coordinated for the present with the air weather service the government maintains.

Later it is the plan to use the balloon exclusively.

It is a money-saver for Uncle Sam. It costs $35 a day to send the stratosphere pilot up. Each balloon costs only $17. If the balloon apparatus should be recovered the government will pay the finder $1.

Watching the first flight here, while others were going on in Burbank, California, and Fairbanks, Alaska, were Dr. Charles F. Brooks, head of the Harvard Observatory at Blue Hills; Joseph L. Paulkus, first assistant at the Airport Weather Bureau, and Roland M. Feiber, designer of the balloon and radio sender.

Pet Cat Left $10,000 by Woman

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1 (AP) — Kit-Cat, companion of her late mistress, Mrs. Linnie C. Beneke, in her "Sad and lonely hours," was left in luxury under Mrs. Beneke's will probated here.

The black-haired pet will benefit from $10,000 willed for the care of both Mrs. Beneke's house cats, Kit-Cat and Mewsie, from the estate at between $30,000 and $40,000. Mewsie died after the will was drawn up.

Harvard Freshmen Pick Odd Careers

Although the Harvard freshman class ran true to form, with the majority of students choosing the fields of business, medicine and law, several odd ambitions were revealed in the Phillips Brooks House freshman poll today.

The career of herpetology (branch of zoology relating to reptiles) led the list as being the most unusual, not to mention importing Italian food products, meteorology, translating and opera singing.

Athletic Coach Killed In Crash

WATERVLIET, N. Y., Oct. 1 (INS)—Joseph T. O'Brien, 27, athletic instructor at Watervliet high school, was killed instantly early today when the car in which he was riding crashed near here. Alfred A. Ulial, 23, track coach at the school, was critically injured.

Smith, Insurance Man, Dies In R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1 (AP) —Charles H. Smith, prominent fire insurance man, died here today. He was a native of Charlestown, Mass., a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a member of the University Club of Boston.

He had been president, treasurer and a director of the Blackstone Mutual Fire Insurance Company, as well as director of a number of other fire insurance companies here.

French Ship on Rocks

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Lloyds' said today the French steamer Brisias, struck on the rocks of Guernsey, English channel island just off the coast of France, and is sinking.

HELEN HUGHES

The rainbow's end is rooted in Hollywood for Helen Hughes, pretty 19-year-old Emerson College student, who took first honors in the great New England Talent Quest sponsored by the Boston Evening American and Sunday-Advertiser, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Judges who viewed her screen test said she has wonderful possibilities for the films. She'll leave October 14 for the film capital, with a four weeks' contract at $75 a week. The "runners-up" to Miss Hughes, whom the judges declared all have acting ability, are Barbara Risdon of Crescent stret, Waltham; Marjorie Simmons of High street, Medford; Janet McNeil of Devon Hill, Chestnut Hill; Helen Hurley of Broadwood street, Roslindale; Jane Carlton of Islington road, Auburndale, and Joan Brown of Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE KOLLAND

One of the cars just now comes to with a bit of this and that about a recent happening, and we give you what the cars hear practically verbatim, as you might say, because usually what they do hear is such as does not go in one and out the other (at least not too often) . . . This, then, has the cops looking for someone stealing metal plates off light poles, and if a milkman hadn't been tapping ashes out of his pipe he wouldn't have been caught . . . So simply is history made. . . .

Hearing the sound of tapping the gendarmes rushed out of the blackness and seized the pipe-rapper . . . Everything would have been fine if, in the usual routine of searching his truck, there hadn't been found considerable canned goods (not milk) . . . And when the milkman told the good police he was none of their biz, you know how police are . . . Besides, at Mattapan station they've got nearly as much stolen foodstuffs like this (from Mattapan Tuberculosis Hospital) as there is in the hospital storeroom itself . . . And all along they've been trying to find the culprit and his hangout . . .

So now there are many persons inside the hospital who are quaking and justly so, because a lot of things probably will come out once the judge pounds his gavel . . . If it aids the people in Mattapan (or feel) any more uneasy, the ton of stolen food cached there is known about, too . . . There probably will be about 70 charges in all . . .

THE POLITICS BOYS

Maybe it was a strange coincidence (and aren't all coincidences strange?) that when the Federal Theatre project curtain rose Wednesday night in Woburn (the show was tagged, "The Curtain Rises") there came a shower of tomatoes, potatoes, fruits once fresh and other gardenstuffs of the past which like to have read nasty to a trooper and aye . . . We tell you here that word is whispered to federal agents that the sponsors of the barrage (who retreated, humming "How Dear to My Heart Are the Scenes of My Childhood") were ladies favoring the anti of the mayoralty bid who sponsored the Federal show of the week . . .

THE PHONE RINGS

And because it has so often and because the letters have been pouring in, we'll ask that you please don't . . . It with regard the chainery that there's a buying trick to . . . It really isn't ethical to give out a store name, and besides it would be more fun to discover it yourself (how wouldn't it?) . . . We'll give you another clue: that is that it apparently isn't the type of chainery most of you callers and writers have had in mind (or maybe you have) . . . Anyway it's got to have a catalogue (now hasn't it?) . . .

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

If one lad who once wanted to be mayor (and perhaps still does) lost 80 G's recently in the stock market (as rumored) he doesn't seem worried riding around town (big limousine, chuffer and all, and a new cuisinarts home in the process of purchase) . . . Dal Flynn, of the dancing Flynn Sisters, a bit lame in one shapely underpinning . . . It was a skid at Hardy Grill and a one-half-sister-lam sidown . . . (Title: "The Girl Said Ooh") . . .

Charlestown Community Club will endorse Bill Galvin, the Ward 2 City Council aspirant . . . It's been most sought-after as a long lead in the galley . . . Poor big will cites not a few likker spots in late Dec. losers saying t'elwithit . . .

Unless something slips, Asst. Atty-Gen. Walter O'Donnell of Northampton and ex-State Senator Frank Goldsmith of Springfield will swap two of those lodgeships . . . O'Donnell may replace Judge Henry P. Field, who died early on Sunday, leaving the probate bench vacant in the district where the former has been a long Democratic toiler . . . And McKeown is a Governor's pest, see . . .

Who's the hired astro lad who's been urging a cash campaign to keep one opposingly candidate in the fight to split the vote for his (and a syndicate's) entry? . . . Dorchester's Plimland Dancehall Ray Bolger, sends word from the Coast that his coverage will not remember him to all the local pals . . . Johnny Stephen's and Sonding Blanche, Callery's "The Governor" in the Southland sitery swinging through a second week is what proves to be a record engagement . . .

Goldwyn Signs Heifetz for Film Lead

Violinist Will Head Cast of "The Great Music Festival"

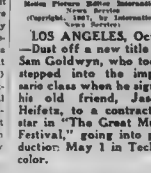
By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

(Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1—Dust off a new title for Sam Goldwyn, who today stepped into the impresario class when he signed his old friend, Jascha Heifetz, to a contract to star in "The Great Music Festival," going into production May 1 in Technicolor.

Interesting to know that Florence Vidor, Heifetz's wife and one-time top screen actress herself, negotiated her husband's contract.



Louella O. Parsons

The signing of the world's No. One violinist proves that great music is becoming an integral part of our movies. The unprecedented reception of 100 Men and a Girl and of Stokowski's fine conducting opening an era, it is true, for the finest musicians of the land.

Rounding out the first half of the double-header are three dancers—one man and a girl, known as the "Six Flying Feet." More fancy and fast clopping in rod-bot rhythm.

Opening the stage bill is something new in the way of dancing, but very entertaining and marvelous to watch.

Sixteen boys and girls—the 16 Dancing Rockettes—dance with grace and precision that will really keep you much interested. It's not every day that you see such dancing as part of a stage show.

Helene Denizon, head of the troupe, is excellent in an interpretative toe dance, which has no little contrast in what followed when "Fats" Waller and his group took the stage.

The Three Nonchalants—humorous tumbling and acrobatic act—drew good response and some laughs, while George Beatty kept up a fast line of chatter that was easy on the ears. His imitation of a drunken sailor was particularly good.

• • •

"Three Cheers for the Groom" starring Burgess Meredith and Ann Sothern is the screen attraction Meredith, who did such a swell piece of work in "Winterset," seems miscast.

The story is that of a young man who struck gold in Alaska and who came back to marry the girl he left behind—only to marry her sister. To win her, he first went through the motions of pretending he was an amnesia victim.

'Fats' Puts Rhythm On Top

Waller's Band Heads Gala Double Stage Bill at Boston

A nationally famous orchestra leader the other day, in picking an all-time swing band, placed "Fats" Waller at the piano.

And if you want to know the reason, just get a glimpse of "Fats" and his very swingy and hotter-than-hot 14-piece orchestra at the RKO-Boston this week.

"Fats" and his boys headline what has been termed a "double-header" stage show and the description has not been misused.

Wait till you see the finale as "Fats" and his boys just swing and swing some more, accompanying a new dance that is swinging its way across the country.

It's known as the "Big Apple," in case you haven't already heard. Sixteen youngsters just dance on that stage in such whirlwind fashion that it's difficult to follow them with the eye. And can they dance!

To those who have seen "Fats" Waller play the piano and sing before his style of "pulling" a song over is of course, no novelty. But our every performance is always a welcome treat.

• • •

With the rotund band leader is that sun-tanned songstress Myra Johnson, who did a swell job getting a great reception the opening day. She and "Fats" make a good pair when they team up for a couple of numbers.

Star on Met's Screen

Love in the early oil days is depicted by Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott in the above scene from "High, Wide and Handsome," new screen hit at the Metropolitan.

'High, Wide, Handsome' Tops Among Big Films

By ANN MARSTERS

"High, Wide and Handsome," the picture we've been hearing about and talking about for a long, long time, opened yesterday at the Metropolitan theater.

• • •

THE CAST

Sally Watterson ..... Irene Dunne
Peter Cortlandt ..... Randolph Scott
Molly ..... Dorothy Lamour
Dad Watterson ..... Raymond Walburn
Earl ..... Charles Bickford
Grandma Cortlandt ..... Elizabeth Patterson
Scammel ..... Ben Blue

Here at last is Paramount's musical saga of the oil industry—and we'll tell you right away that it lives up to all our expectations. It's a big, substantial, handsome production—with Irene Dunne appearing prettier and more charming than we've ever seen her.

The opening scene sets the pre dominant note of the film. It gives us a close-up of Miss Dunne, as the slight-hearted carnival girl, singing the swaggering title song "High Wide and Handsome." The medicine show has come to the little town of Titusville, Pennsylvania, in the year 1859. And that, as you shall see, is the same year in which the little carnival dancer steps gaily into the life of the hero, Randolph Scott.

The songs, written by Oscar Hammerstein, 2d, and Jerome Kern, do a great deal for the whole picture—especially the ever catchy "The Folks Who Live on the Hill," and the title song itself.

Dorothy Lamour, in a father unsympathetic role, nevertheless again shows promise of future achievements when she sings in her low, alluring voice, "The Things I Want."

• • •

The story itself is that of a great romance set against the historical dramatic theme of the first oil boom in Pennsylvania.

Randolph Scott plays the role of a grim young farmer who discovers oil on his farm on the very day of his wedding to the beautiful carnival girl. He does a nice bit of acting, both as the man of action, fighting to save the oil industry from the big-shot railroad men, and as the gentle, romantic lover.

In spite of his love for his bride he becomes more and more absorbed in the business of oil—and Irene cannot understand his neglect of her. They quarrel—and Irene runs away with a passing carnival show.

She returns of course, in the nick of time, to become a part of the tense, exciting climax, in which we see plunging elephants, acrobats, clowns (the whole personnel of a circus—doing their part in the name of "God's Good").

There is no fault to be found with the acting. The supporting cast is splendid—including Raymond Walburn, William Frawley, Elizabeth Patterson and Charles Bickford.

• • •

I know that Reuben Mamoulian, the director has very high hopes for this picture. "How much has it cost, Reuben?" I asked him. "Oh, a million dollars or more," he answered. Certainly he spared neither time nor money in the making of it. And there must be miles of film from this picture—lying on the cutting room floor, I know, anyway, that some of me was there on the cutting room, although I did catch a glimpse of myself as part of the community of Titusville in one opening scene.

It took nearly a year to complete "High, Wide and Handsome"—but that indisputable critic, "box-office," has already decreed that it was well worth it."

'Back in Circulation' Exciting Film Fare On Twin Bills

THE CAST

Timmy Blake ..... Pat O'Brien
Kitty Nash ..... Joan Blondell
Dr. Eric Parde ..... Allyn Joslyn
Sonny Boyle ..... Craig Reynolds
Calvin Whitney ..... Walter Kingsford

For exactly eighty-one jittery, nerve-wracking minutes, Joan Blondell and Pat O'Brien announce that they're "Back in Circulation" this week at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters.

Throughout the unreeling you'll perch chazardously on your seat's edge while the ruthless Blondell rips from train wreck to murder, soars indulges in a few hysterical outbursts, only to exude a lot of sweetness and light in the final scenes. The picture's hardly recommended as a sedative.

As may be guessed by now, the picture is a newspaper melodrama with Joan the dictatorial sob sister, playing opposite Pat's relentless, ashen loveabe managing editor.

The plot is swift and suspenseful—the scenes primarily as a final starring vehicle for capable Joan to toss off her bonchalant comedy bits and dramatic inflections with superb finesse. Pat O'Brien turns in a great performance—practically a carbon copy of the one perpetrated in "The Front Page."

The story revolves around the mysterious death of a millionaire. Aided by Joan, the editor accumulates a startling amount of circumstantial evidence against the impercient widow.

Convinced, the widow is prevailed upon to reveal all for the sake of her doctor sweetheart, John Litel. The widow accedes. Through Joan's efforts and the added revelation of a suicide note, the widow is acquitted.

Meanwhile, for the sake of a few laughs you're amused by a series of door-slamming, glass-breaking sequences which smack a bit of the custard-pie era. Also there's in for good measure are a few Hollywood conceptions of newspaper ethics. But the movie's adequate entertainment for the entire family.

• • •

Margaret Lindsay turns in an excellent performance as the comely widow. Eric Rolfe Greene title is doubling her native charm. Equally fine is the veteran stage actor, John Litel, in the latter role. Walter Byron does a convincing bit in his portrayal of Carleton Whitney (connel of a circus—doing their part in the name of "God's Good").

There is no fault to be found with the acting. The supporting cast is splendid—including Raymond Walburn, William Frawley Elizabeth Patterson and Charles Bickford.

Girl Wed 7 Times Tells Her Bridal Technique

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Mrs Lillian Monday Stanley Gamble Brower Douglas Mudgett—she has two more names, but could not recall them at the moment—explained her technique for getting husband today.

"I just acted natural, and they came to me."

Seven husbands and no divorces, Detective Frank Waterbury said. That is the matrimonial score of Mrs. Mudgett, 36, who prefers to be called Patricia Gamble. Gamble was the name of her second husband, by whom she had four children.

WANTED IN BAY STATE

(The "Patricia" she just picked up on peasant"—having a desire to change her first name too.)

Mrs Gamble then to keep the record straight, blue-eyed, petite brown-haired discussed her matrimonial ventures after appearing before Justice Wesley Messersmith on a charge of passing a bad check.

Detective Waterbury said she also is wanted as a fugitive from justice in Framingham Mass having escaped from a woman's reformatory where she was serving a term for polygamy.

GIVEN YEAR TERM

She thought she had loved all her husbands she said, but wasn't quite sure. Anyway she was engaged to an eighth man when she was arrested after an interim in which she had married once or twice.

Gamble was her favorite husband, she said.

Her first marriage, at 13, lasted two days. She said she never saw the man again.

"Can't you remember the names of your other husbands?"

She might, she said, if she thought it over, but it would take her a few minutes.

Justice Messersmith, shaking his head gravely, sentenced her to a year in the county penitentiary at Eastview on the check charge, but suspended sentence and turned her over to New York police, who said she was wanted there on a forgery charge.

If she isn't convicted, said the justice, she'll be brought back to Westchester County to serve the term. Then there's the polygamy matter in Massachusetts.

Grade Crossing Jobs Approved

Federal approval of the state department of public works 1938 grade crossing elimination program was announced today in Washington.

Detailed plans for elimination of eight grade crossings throughout the state and installation of flashing signals are now being prepared by state engineers, Callahan said.

Awarding of the contracts for the projects will be made during the winter and work will begin in the spring. Approval of the program was given by the federal bureau of public roads. The entire cost of the projects will be financed by the federal government.

Press Control Bill Up Today in Alberta

Dictates "Policy" Printing, Bares News Sources

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Alberta legislature had before it today a sweeping government bill "to ensure publication of accurate news and information" providing that newspapers must publish government statements of policy and disclose the sources of all other information on demand.

Suspension of publication is included among the penalties for violation of the act which was introduced by Solon Low, the provincial treasurer.

Under the measure, the chairman of the Alberta Social Credit board would be empowered to force publication of any statement he furnished to newspapers on:

CONTROLLED PRESS

1—The objects of any policies of the government.

2—The means being taken or intended to be taken by the government to attain such objects;

3—Circumstances which hinder or make difficult the achievement of any such objects.

The bill provides that such statements must be in the ordinary point of the newspaper, not exceed one page in length in a daily newspaper and be published in the next regular issue after receipt.

The bill would make such statements privileged and not subject to the libel or slander act. They would not include matter ordinarily published as advertising.

WOULD EXPOSE SOURCES

A newspaper would be required within 24 hours after demand of the social credit board chairman to give the names, addresses and occupations of all persons supplying it with information on any subject as well as the address of any writer of an editorial article or news item.

Upon the recommendation of the social credit board chairman, the lieutenant governor in council might, as a penalty, prohibit publication of a newspaper for a definite period or until further notice. Publication of any information from any person or source associated with the prohibited newspaper might be prohibited.

U. S. Milk Suits Filed Against 16 Dealers

3 Big Boston Firms Among Defendants On Market Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Justice Department officials disclosed today the government had filed suits in Federal District Court in Boston against 16 New England milk distributors to force them to comply with the Greater Boston milk marketing order.

Others named in the suit filed in Boston were George L. Chapin, John J. Corkery, Ralph C. Donald, W. P. Kilmi Co., Elm Spring Farm, Green Valley Creamery, Inc., Robert Knapp, F. W. Lane and John E. Burr, Howard R. Lefavour and Son, Mary B. Proud, A. J. Robson and Seven Lake Dairy and the Seymour Dairy Products.

Tabers office.

At the same time officials of the federal agriculture commodities corporation announced purchases of surplus milk and dairy products in certain areas. Under Boston's milk order, beginning Monday, producers paid the milk would be differentiated from dairy products.

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

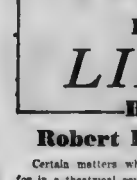
Certain matters which there are no room for in a theatrical review.

I refer to Gilbert Miller's production of "Victoria Regina" with Helen Hayes in the title role. I feel sorry for the English. At long last the Lord Chamberlain and the King's Reader of Plays let down their bars, forbidding the production of a play containing personages of the royal family until one hundred years after death.



ROBERT E. ROGERS

Victoria has been dead not forty years. But since this spring was the one hundredth anniversary of her accession the production was allowed. Possibly the fact of Helen Hayes enormous success in the role had something to do with it. Anyway, it was presented in London last summer—though not with Helen Hayes—and I believe there is also a moving picture on the theme.

The Missus went to the theater with me and was considerably touched and impressed. When she was under five years old, at school in London, by some hook or crook she was taken to be presented to the old Queen. She went with her head full of the old nursery rhyme

Pussy cat, pussy cat, where have you been?
I've been to London to see the Queen.
Pussy cat, pussy cat, what did you there?

Helen Hayes Plays Queen's Part With Regal Dignity

But there was neither cat or mouse visible and she disgraced herself by bursting into howls of disappointment. The Queen, for once, was amused.

The Missus avers that Helen Hayes in the Balmoral Castle scene with Disraeli, looks precisely as she remembers the Queen, the plump and ruddy old lady in black silk and the snowy cap. She also remembers seeing her being driven through the streets in an open barouche, her little sun parasol with the bent handle, just as in the closing scene, to the cheers of the populace.

I have always regretted never having seen Beryl Mercer—of "The Old Lady Shows her Medals" fame—in the same part. Some ten years ago Walter Prichard Eaton and David Carb dramatized Lytton Strachey's acid and amusing "Queen Victoria." (I suppose it was the existence of the earlier book and play that forced Mr. Housman and Mr. Miller to choose the present unguenly title for the present opus.

I should like to compare Miss Mercer's with Miss Hayes' performance. I suspect that Helen Hayes carries off the honors as the young Queen, although when it comes to the later years Miss Mercer, plumpish and middle-aged and eminently Victorian, probably handled the part more easily. But never, I am convinced, with more of the old lady's regal dignity than Miss Hayes showed.

King's Reader of Plays Has Much to Answer For

Also I wish that I had read the complete volume of some thirty plays out of which poet, actress, and producer made the successful selections which make up the present play at the Shubert.

I was glad to learn authoritatively, also, that Laurence Housman, brother of the more famous author of "The Shropshire Lad," perhaps the most famous and satisfactory poems in modern English, was also the author of "Prunella," that most charming of poetic fantasies, which I knew almost by heart twenty years ago.

It played at the Majestic, I remember, with Marguerite Clark, then in the full bloom of her petite and marvelously child-like beauty, in the title role. Winthrop Ames produced it with his usual meticulous good taste and care.

Laurence Housman also wrote a miracle play "Bethlehem" which, with his usual bad luck in his subjects, was considered not suitable for production before an English audience.

The King's Reader of Plays has much to answer for, by the way. Masterlinck's "Mario Magdalene," Heyse's "Maria von Magdala" (done here by Mrs. Fiske), the Passion Play, and (curiously "The Mikado") also shared the ban, together with Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession." That last is more understandable.

Reds Confused By Browder's 'Digressions'

Communist Leader Renounces Tenets Of Own Party

All was confusion today in the rank and file of the Communist party, after Earl Browder of Kansas, general secretary of the party and candidate for President in the last election, tacitly renounced many principles.

Quizzed by the legislative committee investigating subversive organizations within the Commonwealth, Browder, authoritative spokesman for his party, related

That Communists do not advocate overthrow of the American government by force.

That Communism is not opposed to God.

That Communists do not want to control labor unions, instead, he said, the party agrees fully with the principles of the American Federation of Labor, and hopes for a successful reunion of A. F. of L. and C. I. O. forces.

"NOT ANARCHISTS"

That Communists are not anarchists or terrorists.

That Communists today would not oppose conscription of militia in event the United States engaged in war.

Instead, said the shaggy-haired, stoop-shouldered Kansan, the Communist party endorses candidates nominated by other parties in some elections, and now is actively engaged in throwing all its support to the New Deal.

His declarations under fire of questioning by Senator Sybil H. Holmes of Brookline, chairman of the legislative committee, and Vice Chairman Representative Philip Sherman of Somerville, left Communists in Massachusetts in a shambles torn by internal strife and discord.

The hearings opened yesterday will resume Monday.

TELLS OF ABOUT-FACE.

In Browder's own words, he described a tarit about-face he has made since 1917 when he refused to join the U. S. Army and was thrown into prison for opposing conscription.

"I would carry arms for the United States now, in order to help fight Fascism, which is wrecking the world," Browder asserted. "My opinion has changed since 1917."

Prior to this Representative Edward D. Sirois of Lawrence, Republican defeated by Connery in the special election, grilled Phil Frankfeld, state secretary of the Communist party in Massachusetts concerning election activities.

"Did you ever party support the candidacy of my opponent?" asked Representative Sirois.

"Yes, sir," answered Frankfeld. "We considered that a vote for Connery was a vote for the New Deal."

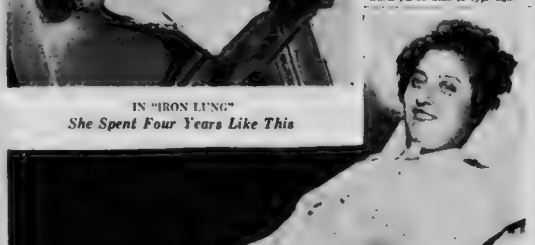
She Spent Four Years Like This



WELL ON WAY TO VICTORY
Now She Sits Up, Breathes Like Other People

The two pictures, above, tell the story of a battle which is being won, against great odds, by courageous Celia Surwosky, 27, of Roxbury. Near death from infantile paralysis, she was placed in an "iron lung" at City Hospital, four years ago.

Plucky Girl Wins 'Lung' Life Battle

Four years ago, the cards were all stacked against her. But today Celia Surwosky, 27, the plucky Roxbury girl who has waged—and won—a desperate battle against the ravages of infantile paralysis holds all the aces in the deck.

Removed from the respirator which has been her home for the past four years, Celia smiled happily as she discussed with a Boston American reporter her plans to pick up the strands of her tragic young life.

"I always felt that some day I'd get well and leave the respirator. Never for a moment would I let myself think that was the slightest possibility of my not getting better. I used to occupy my mind with thoughts of what I'd do when I got well," she said.

"I was a typist, and I know now that the day isn't far off when I'll be able to type again."

A marine color guard and marine company will escort the party from the Hotel Lenox to the Arena.

Coming here to give two concerts, Sunday, at Boston Arena, for benefit of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund, the United States Marine Band will have as its ex-officio "host" this Charlestown Navy Yard Marine detachment commandant, Lieutenant Colonel E. M. Mestague.

Hurley Rejects Kelly Blast

Explaining his failure to present Lieutenant-Governor Kelly's resolution demanding Justice Black's removal from the Supreme Court bench by the President, to the executive council today, Governor Hurley stated:

"I am firm in my resolution to condemn all un-American organizations and I have so expressed myself on other occasions. The Ku Klux Klan is an unpatriotic and un-American organization and I am sure that both U. S. senators and congressmen from Massachusetts join with me in thee condemnation of this group.

"Therefore, lieutenant-governor, your resolution does not in any degree change my opinion or position. I would respectfully suggest that you communicate your opinions on the matter to the U. S. senators and Massachusetts congressmen. I am sure they will co-operate."

PWA to Discard Rule by States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today that the field organization of the Public Works Administration would be shifted November 1 from a state to a regional basis "to achieve economies."

Ickes, PWA administrator, did not announce details of the new regional set-up, but said it would be patterned after the "natural" geographical subdivisions of the nation frequently proposed by the National Resources Committee and embraced in pending conservation legislation."

The PWA has under way a $1,-294,702 construction program embracing 2980 projects, either under construction, under contract, or allotted.

Delivery Delay Saves Goods

C. Frank Benner, of Lynn, and his bride-to-be will enjoy their new furniture after their marriage next week because traffic delays saved it from a fire that damaged wedding gifts valued at $500.

The blaze, which caused damage estimated at $2000, was caused by an overheated flatiron in the home of Mrs. Bertha Benner, his mother on Moray street, Lynn, according to police.

Man Escapes Death Under Street Car

Homer Blemus of Glenwood road, Somerville, 29-year-old salesman, narrowly escaped death today when he was caught under a Boston Elevated street car at Broadway and Adams street, Somerville. His life was saved by Motorman Embert Sanford, who stopped the heavy car in time.

Patricia Ellis, Paul Lukas, aBck

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Patricia Ellis and Paul Lukas, motion picture stars, arrived on the liner Roma today from Europe.

Dr. Coon Hospital Aide

Filling the vacancy left by resignation of Dr. Jackson M. Thomas, Boston Psychopathic Hospital has a new chief medical officer today in Dr. Gaylord P. Coon, formerly director of research at the Austin Fox Riggs Foundation at Stockbridge.

Dr. Thomas resigned to accept an appointment at the University of Louisville, Ky., college of medicine.

Formerly senior assistant physician at the state hospital from 1928 to 1930, Dr. Coon continued to do research and teaching there as a Commonwealth Fellow in psychiatry at Harvard medical school for three succeeding years.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Ann Marsters

Now we have quite a few jingles from our readers who have been fondly recalling the scenes of their childhood. Some of them have a decidedly familiar ring to us — especially the one sent in by "Somerville" which goes:

ANN MARSTERS

I should worry, I should care.
I should marry a millionaire.
He should worry and he should die.
And I should marry another guy.

If you grew up in East Cambridge you may remember a jingle which fresh little boys used to chant — and probably still do.

Virginia, Virginia, ha, ha, ha,
Kissed her fella in a Broadway car;
You tell Ma, and I'll tell Pa;
Virginia, Virginia, ha, ha, ha.

Our own favorite rhyme is one [illegible] author, Gelett Burgess, can never quite [illegible]. It goes

I never saw a purple cow,
I never hope to see one,
But this I tell you here and now,
I'd rather see than be one.

If you have a favorite jingle, do send it along, even if it's one that you used to sing while jumping rope.

Gorgeous Gowns In New Picture

But you mustn't think that the picture is merely a showing of women's fashions. Indeed it isn't.

If you have already seen the picture we hope you noticed that Warner Baxter displays a complete line of male styles for the current season.

During the course of the film he wears thirty-four different suits, eleven overcoats, forty-eight shirts, thirty neckties, nine lounging robes and eighteen hats.

Sandman Shop Has Everything for Sleep

SHOPPING HINTS:—We've never seen anything quite like the "Sandman Shop" which has just opened, at the Paine Furniture Company.

There, right before your eyes, is everything under the sun that has to do with the god of sleep. And every item, from the furniture to the pillow cases, is most attractively displayed. Incidentally, the god of sleep is Morpheus.)

The Sandman Shop was the idea of Lee MacPhail and was designed by Leon Small, Paine furniture designer. The style of the shop is modern, and the color scheme is rust rose. It takes up more than 2000 feet of floor space which leaves plenty of room for complete bedroom sets to be displayed.

And there are some lovely Belgian lace bedspreads hung like draperies on the walls.

"Your Figure, Madame!"

YOUR EXCESS CALORIES GO WAY OF POUNDS

By IDA JEAN KAIN

IT IS the fashion to eat wisely and well—within your calorie limits. Modern reducing is individualized down to the last calorie.

Do you know the exact number of calories by which you can lose one to two pounds per week and feel better?

It has been estimated that the average sedentary male worker will spend around 2600 calories per day. The calorie requirement is about the same per pound of body weight for men and for women, but since women average about four-fifths as much weight, their calorie requirement is less. On an average, women require from 2000 to 2400 calories per day.

• • •

Without exercise you burn about 14 calories per pound of body weight per day. With light exercise the calorie expenditure increases, and you burn 16 to 18 calories per pound of body weight. This means that the average man weighing 150 pounds will burn around 2600 calories per day. The average woman weighing around 130 pounds will burn 2100 calories per day.

If you are overweight, you have taken more than your daily share of calories. Each excess pound of body weight means 4000 stored calories, since it takes that many to make a pound.

Now, the scientific way to burn these stored calories is to use only two-thirds your actual calorie requirement. Two-thirds of 2500 calories, or approximately 1600 calories, constitutes the average daily reducing diet for men; two-thirds of 2100 calories makes the average reducing diet for women—600 calories per day.

• • •

Since 1600 calories is a liberal allowance, and since many of you are normal weight at less than 120 pounds, I keep the daily allowance at approximately 1200 per day. If, on the number you lose more than one to two pounds per week you should increase your daily calorie allowance.

This number of calories allows a minimum of 800 calories per day in the protective foods, as follows:

	Calories
One egg	100
One glass skimmed milk or buttermilk	80
Five ounces lean meat	225
Two fresh fruits, one a citrus	100
One [illegible] cooked vegetables	80
Butter, 1½ pats	150
Bread, 3 slices, whole wheat	225
Total protective food calories	850
BALANCED LOW-CALORIE DIET
Breakfast	Calories
Orange Juice, ½ glass	50
Poached egg on whole wheat toast	150
coffee, clear	—
	200
Luncheon
Baked potato	100
Butter, ½ pat	50
Carrots, ¾ cup	40
Pineapple and cottage cheese salad (fruit dressing)	150
Slice whole wheat bread	75
Butter ½ pat	75
	440
Dinner
Tomato juice cocktail	25
Roast beef (trim off fat)	200
Baked squash in shell	50
Butter, ½ pat	50
Head lettuce, Reducer's Thousand Island Dressing	25
Sponge cake, 2-inch sector, without icing	200
Glass skimmed milk	80
TOTAL CALORIES FOR DAY	1270

Without any exercise, you will lose one pound per week on this diet. With exercise, you will lose more.

If you wish further directions for calculating your reducing calories, send for the "Pointers to Slimness." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, and enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

Married Comrades

By ADELE GARRISON

MADGE TELLS SAM OF LETTER

CHAPTER 430

FOR the fraction of a second I fairly held my breath as Dicky hesitated in answering my proposal that I drive Samuel Brixton to New Haven in our car while he followed in the Brixton car.

But the next instant his answer came cheerily and heartily.

"Why, of course," he said. "Excellent arrangement! Where shall I find your car and man?"

"In the garage. Mr. Brixton rented it. I have given them instructions to bring it over to you. It is serviced for the journey."

"I was going directly to Vanderbilt Mews. Mr. Brixton said 'Ronald and Bob have rooms in that dormitory. Ronald doesn't know I am coming, but I can find him.'"

Then I'll park as near the entrance as I can and wait for you to come up," Dicky said. "I fancy I'll get there first, for my wife, I understand, has much that she wants to say to you. And remember, whatever she says I am behind her, one hundred per cent. So cry old chap!"

"Isn't it possible for you to tell me now what is wrong with Ronald?" he said. "I am nearly crazy imagining things."

"I must have your promise first that you repeat not a word of my story, Carol," I said firmly. "I cannot risk an accident."

I can promise that," he said hastily. "No matter what you tell me, I shall not make a scene."

MARION INVOLVED

"Very well' Now one thing more. I want your promise not to tell Ronald I have told you anything about him I must protect Marion."

"Marion!" he said, plainly startled. "What has she to do with this?"

Everything," I said. "She is the one who first became alarmed about Ronald and summoned me to Whitney Hall to tell me about it. We have just come from there."

"Marion's message must have been urgent," he said uneasily. "Please tell me—"

"But what was worrying Marion?" Mr. Brixton asked in the next breath and I returned to the story.

TOLD HER TROUBLES

"Ronald told her in his letter," I said, "that there was terrible financial trouble in his family, and that he would have to leave college. He also said that if he could not find something to do to help out, Carolyn would also have to leave. He told Marion that he would have to break the engagements he had made with her to take her to the Yale Derby Day races and dance and to come down to her senior dance at Whitney Hall."

White Stick Waves Away Lip Blemishes

Magically Clears Up Cold Sores

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S JUST about this time of year when prospects for a glamorous opening night or a sister deb's party are most apt to be dimmed by the appearance of an insidious little blotch somewhere along the lip-line!

Open season for cold sores has begun!

You may be wearing your first all-sequins jacket, and feeling glamorous as Dietrich, mysterious as the night, and altogether sure the best of life has at last begun, when—pouf!

It sums up to the point that you should never be without a tiny white stick that can wave away lip blemishes—cold or fever sores—by drying them up immediately.

It's a most inexpensive remedy and smelling stick is always on hand—and the whole thing's not more than fifty cents, but it is guaranteed to do the trick.

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX

EVERY homemaker likes to cut corners occasionally on the food budget.

So instead of the day-in-and-day-out serving of a meat or fish main dish, why not try building your dinner around a nutritious vegetable and nut combination.

Here are some out-of-the-ordinary recipes in which the latest culinary fashion, glycerine, is artfully utilized to give the family a new and zestful meal time treat. The addition of the glycerine in these food combinations brings out the flavor of both vegetables and nuts, making the finished dish uniquely appetizing.

CARROT-ALMOND RING

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup light cream
3 tablespoons glycerine
½ cup blanched almonds, broken
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Dash of paprika

Wash, scrape and slice carrots. Mix with almonds and pour over this the glycerine. Let stand for a few minutes. Melt butter. Add milk to beaten eggs, then butter, sugar, salt and paprika and combine with carrot mixture. Brush inside of ring mold with glycerine and pour in mixture. Bake in pan of hot water in a slow oven—350 degrees F. until firm.

The glycerine used in the preparation of the mold is responsible for the mixture sliding out readily when cooked.

SPINACH-PEANUT TIMBALES

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated onion
2 tablespoons glycerine
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup chopped peanuts (If salt peanuts are used, use only ¼ teaspoon salt instead of ½ teaspoon.)
2 cups cooked spinach, well drained and finely chopped.

Mix salt, pepper, lemon juice, onion and milk together. Add to eggs. Mix glycerine with peanuts. Add butter to spinach and combine with egg mixture. Blend in nuts and glycerine. Pack firmly in a well greased casserole and bake in a pan of hot water in slow oven—300 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

NUTTED BROCCOLI ROYAL

1 large bright green head of broccoli
½ cup butter
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons glycerine
½ cup chopped almonds

Remove all dry withered leaves and outside stalks from broccoli, wash and cut in individual portions and cook in salted boiling water until tender. Pour glycerine over almonds. Melt butter and add almonds, heating thoroughly. Pour over the hot, well-drained broccoli and serve at once.

The addition of glycerine to the combination of broccoli and almonds gives an entirely new and appetizing taste to the finished dish.

ASPARAGUS-NUT LOAF

4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups boiling water
2 egg yolks, well beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash of salt, paprika and pepper
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons glycerine
1 cup chopped pecan nut meats

Melt butter in top of double boiler, blend flour and salt and gradually, stirring well, add cooked. Beat well a few moments and add egg yolks. Pour glycerine over nut meats and add to mixture, add lemon juice and rind, and paprika and pepper.

Cut asparagus in inch pieces. If using fresh or frozen asparagus boil lightly. Mix well all ingredients and place in greased casserole. Bake in moderate oven—350 to 375 deg. for about 20 minutes.

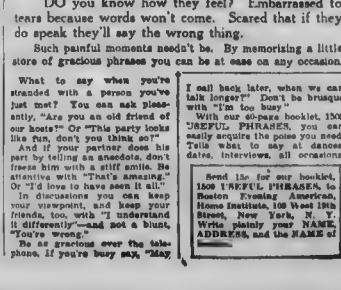
Right Phrases Win Friends



DO you know how they feel? Embarrassed to tears because words won't come. Scared that if they do speak they'll say the wrong thing.

What to say when you're stranded with a person you've just met? You can ask pleasantly, "Are you an old friend of our hosts?" Or "This party looks like fun, don't you think so?"

And if your partner does his part by telling an anecdote, don't freeze him with a stiff smile. Be attentive with "That's amazing." Or "I'd love to have seen it all."

In discussions you can keep your viewpoint, and keep your friends, too, with "I understand it differently"—and not a blunt, "You're wrong."

Be as gracious over the telephone. If you're busy say, "May I call back later, when we can talk longer?" Don't be brusque with "I'm too busy."

With our 40-page booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES, you can easily acquire the poise you need. Tells what to say at dances, dates, interviews, all occasions.

Send 15c for our booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 108 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of [illegible].

Self-Made Girl

By Hazel Livingstone

SEVENTEEN

It hurt to have to start in a room full of girls of all shapes and sizes and ages, but for the most part fairly young and attractive, knowing that she looked shabby and out of date.

But Linda held her head high, and pretended not to care.

Nola Bush wouldn't care, Dora wouldn't care much either. Why should she? But she did. She cared terribly,

It was unfortunate that shyness and consciousness of her shabby clothes made her seem cold and aloof. The friendly advances of the other girls went unnoticed.

"Who does she think she is?"

"FRENCH"

"STICK"

Linda didn't realize how unpopular she was until, one day, it began to matter and then she didn't care. Let them dislike her. Good! It would be just that much easier to climb up the ladder over them.

Nola and Dora laughed at her determination to get ahead. They thought it was terribly funny. Gladys would come along often to study and had some idea of Linda's problems, among her head.

Take it from one who knows, Linda, you're barking up the wrong tree. You'll NEVER get out of the needle class, once you're put in the big room with all the other nitwits.

"Of course, it is a job, but mark my words, it won't lead anywhere. Take my advice, and keep looking for something else—anything where you'll have a chance to use what brains God gave you!"

"WAIT AND SEE"

"Give up my job it took me a solid year to get? Not me! I'm going to hang on until I get something decent out of it. And I will, too! You wait and see"

Scottish Tartans Predominate New Debutante Fashions

By BETTY ALDEN

LATEST DEBUTANTE DOPE . . . In order to correctly describe the latest fashionable rage, we will have to dig out the encyclopedia and read up on the ancient lore of Scotland to find out about the clan tartans, Glengarry bonnets, sporrans and all the other tricky costume decorations worn by the ancient Scottish tribes . . . Nancy Stevens is one of our young fashionables who is very receptive to the recent wave of popularity of Scotch costumes . . . She has a striking daytime outfit which consists of a full length coat of colorful tartan right from the Highlands . . . a skirt with bias godets of the same fabric and a pert little Glengarry bonnet to match . . . Nancy, by the way, will have her turn at entertaining all her sister debs when she makes her curtsey to Dame Boston's social circle at a luncheon on October 14 . . . This party will be given at the Dedham Country and Polo Club by Nancy's aunt, Mrs. Arthur Wheelwright of Westwood . . .

CYNTHIA HASKELL

Susan Brooks, who made her debut at a barn dance in Milton Wednesday evening also likes the Scottish tartans . . . She has been wearing a wrap around sports skirt which is caught together with a large safety pin . . . The pin looks like a modern version of an old-fashioned horse-blanket pin, but we understand that it is more than a pin, and has some special significance to a Highlander . . .

Janet Simonds of Fitchburg also has a flair of individuality in her costumes . . . At Jane Swift's luncheon at The Country Club, she appeared in a full length cape of brown with bold white lines making a criss-cross pattern on it . . . and a peaked rolled turban of the same fabric . . . Beneath the cape was a sleeveless beige waistcoat over a brown silk blouse . . .

Like the complexity of the numerous alphabetical bureaus of the government, Elizabeth Black of Cambridge is having a little trouble with her own alphabet . . . She is attending Vassar as well as making her debut this season, and is finding it is pretty difficult to mix the pursuit of the three "R's" with the three "D's" of the debutante's day—Dressing, Driving and Dancing . . . so she has had to postpone her plans for a coming out party until vacation time rolls around . . .

November Social Calendar Crowded

THIS YEAR the debs will appreciate what Thanksgiving Day means . . . Not only its deep traditional significance, but a sort of tired and grateful thankfulness that a salesgirl feels when a successful bargain day rush is over . . . The swirling of the autumn leaves won't be in it with the debutante whirl during the first weeks of November . . . Almost every date on the calendar has been reserved for one or more parties . . . One of the latest affairs to be added to the long list is the tea dance which Mrs Frank M. Clark of Cambridge is giving at the Cambridge Boat Club on Wednesday, November 10, for her daughter, Catherine E. Clark . . . Catherine is a graduate of Concord Academy . . . and a sister of Polly Clark, who made her debut a couple of years ago . . .

Talkative "he-men" in the stag lines at this season's parties who have done some sailing in the summer and are looking for a receptive feminine ear in which to pour tales of their prowess will have to mind their nautical "p's" and "q's" when they meet a tall and graceful brunette nicknamed "Cinders" . . . Though she doesn't look it when she is wearing a party frock, "Cinders," who is Cynthia Haskell, is quite an authority on practical seamanship . . . For a good many summers she has acted as part of the crew in important sailing events with her brothers, Alden and George, Jr. . . . And despite the fact that she is only of debutante age, is a pretty competent sailing master when at the helm of her own vessel . . . Competent enough to defeat all comers for the women's championship of the North Shore this summer, and to win the right to represent her section in the national women's championship races at Rye, N. Y., for the Mrs. Charles Francis Adams Cup . . . Now that sailing is practically over until spring "Cinders" and her mother are turning their attention to plans for her coming out party . . . A tea dance at the Hotel Somerset on the 19th of November . . .

Plans Fashion Show Next Monday

THE GREATEST gratification a prognosticator can experience is to see her predictions come true . . . so we hope you will pardon a note of pride in our voice when we point out that about a month ago we made the prediction that Mrs. Vincent Lamb . . . the former Pauline Agassiz Shaw, daughter of Louis Agassiz Shaw, and member of the famous Agassiz clan which has been associated with Harvard College and Cambridge for so many generations . . . would return to Cambridge in the fall and carve out a business career for herself by opening a gown shop . . . Today the Boston papers are announcing that Mrs. Lamb's shop will be ready to open next Tuesday . . .

Profiting by the experience she has gained as a committee member for numerous charity affairs, Pauline is planning a real bang-up premiere . . . with a pre-opening party and all . . .

The party will be a fashion show and tea at the Hotel Commander next Monday afternoon, on the eve of the shop's opening day . . . For one so young and with no business training . . . Pauline made her debut only four years ago . . . she has planned all the details of the party very thoroughly . . .

There will be about a dozen models . . . among them Jane Ragle, Ellen Moseley, Patricia Preston, Mrs. Hancock Dorr, Betsy McKean, Marjorie Motley, Cornelia Pentecost, Mrs. Louis McLennan, Polly Cotter and Mrs. Nicholas Danforth . . .

Patronesses for the affair include Pauline's step-mother, Mrs. Louis A. Shaw; her aunt, Mrs. Francis W. Bird, and also Mrs. Alfred Dorr, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth Grew, Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean, Mrs. Augustin H. Parker, Jr., Mrs. George Saltonstall West and Mrs. Gurdon S. Worcester . . .

Mrs. Lamb has named her shop P'Lene (short for Pauline) and her cousin, George Shaw 2d of Concord, has stepped in to give a little masculine advice and aid with the business details . . . Mrs. Lamb is a granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird of Walpole . . .

MARY ELIZABETH CLARKE WILLIAM SWETT

AS A SORT of preview of the after-theater party which will follow the benefit performance this evening of "You Can't Take It With You" at the Plymouth, sponsored by the New England Hospital for Women and Children, these young people gathered at Mrs. George Willard Smith's in Brookline for a cocktail party and song fest the other afternoon. Here they are shown gathered around the piano enjoying Bill Swett's rhythmic interpretations of the latest tunes. These members of the committee are Virginia Vogel, Hope Burchard and Mary Elizabeth Clarke, all debutantes of last winter, and Lawrence Pool, Charles Beaman and William Swett. They have been at work on plans for the benefit for weeks.

Radioland Reflections

By N. F. T.

Big interest of the night among air activity patrons is without a doubt centered upon the coast to coast broadcast by Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, of Alabama, to be heard (WNAC-WBZ-WEEI) between 9:30 and 10 o'clock tonight.

It will of course have to do with the recent Klan clatter and the dialing will be heavier than in many moons.

Four years on the air for the "Hollywood Hotel" hour and this evening (WEEI) is the anniversary airing.

Apropos of the anniversary, Louella Parsons the presiding personality and noted newspaper/filmland columnist, has prepared something exceptional for the loudspeaker following from coast to coast.

Plucking two of the brightest stars right from Hollywood's firmament of the famous, Miss Parsons is planning to present Warren William and Claudette Colbert in a "mike" version of the gripping "Madame X" stage play. Frederic Langford, Jerry Cooper and the peppy Raymond Paige orchestra have a striking musical score ready and waiting to waft by way of observing the occasion.

The League of Nations' efforts to alleviate the tense international crises in China and Spain will be explained to American listeners in a broadcast from Geneva by John B. Whitton tonight (WEEI), from 7:30 to 7:45 p.m.

KANSAS STATE GRIDDERS ARRIVE IN BOSTON

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

18 BOSTON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1937

From Out Of the West They Come

Coach Wesley Fry, Captain Howard "Hugh Pockets" Clews and the rest of the Kansas State Wildcats' football contingent arrived at Hotel Kenmore today, hoping to eat Eagles' meat after their game tomorrow afternoon with Boston College. The game marks the first intersectional mix of the New England season, and the first time Kansas State ever played in this section. They're big and strong, but inexperienced, so that Gil Dobie's Eagles will doubtless start as favorites.

Bernie Bierman's Book Ignores No. 1 Football Secret

(Winning Football, by Bernie Bierman McGraw-Hill: $3 50).

IN ALL MY READINGS OF BOOKS wherein the successful football coaches reminisce, advise and moralize on how to win victories, including that latest work by Minnesota's Bernie Bierman, I feel that the old boys are not letting down their hair. I have searched in vain through these tomes for some word on how the successful coach enlists his varsity recruits and by what means he induces the kids to take his shilling in preference to their other options.

AUSTEN LAKE

I thought for a moment that Bernie had launched into a frank confession in his opening paragraph, which reports how someone asked Pop Warner, "the grand old veteran" of Temple, what makes a great coach and Pop replied, "Great material." But Bernie waggles an editorial hip at this one and slides off a typographical tackle and into the clear with discussions on how to shield a punter and what happens if you don't box the tackle.

Eye Cut Makes Maloney Quit As He Leads Marek on Points

Kelley Stops Cunningham In Sixth

By JACK CONWAY

Dick Maloney experienced one of the misfortunes of the fistic wars when a deep cut over his right eye gave Max Marek of Chicago a four-round victory over him at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden.

Maloney had a decided lead on points when Dan Cassone's hands were stopped the contest.

MAREK AGGRESSIVE

He knew if he sent the South Boston battler back for the fifth round that the eye would make it impossible for him to do himself justice and the referee would have to halt the fracas.

It had been a hard fight but Marek didn't take a backward step. He kept crowding and his left jabs and hooks

Sox Face Yanks; Newsom Hurls

NEW YORK, Oct 1—Boston's Red Sox came here today to open a three game series with the Yankees, a series that will close the season. Single games are scheduled today, tomorrow and Sunday.

With still a fighting chance to finish in the first division after taking three out of four from Washington, the Sox will use their strongest lineup against the Yanks.

Buck Newsom will pitch today. Lefty Grove tomorrow and Jack Wilson Sunday.

Wilson won his 16th game of the season as the Sox split their final doubleheader in the Capital. McKain lost the first game 4 to 3 but Wilson came back to win the second, 9 to 3, and keep the Sox in the running for fourth place.

Lowell Logic

Warren Longtin, Julian Beaulieu, Don Sullivan, Ray Watts and Peter Koudinakos, out of the Keady lineup because of injuries, are expected to play sparing-y tomorrow

Lowell's line coach, Fritz Dreschler, does the scouting for Lester Keady. He's been showing the New Britain plays to the squad all week.

Jackie Coughlin, burly fullback was also a member of last spring's fine diamond team. His football talent rates his as one of the better Lowell backfield performers.

Football Bows in Harvard's Opening | Kansas and B. C. Wide Open Game

By JACK CONWAY

FOOTBALL HAS got baseball almost pushed off the sports stage. As soon as the World Series is over, football will have most of the limelight to itself.

Horse and dog racing, of course, will have their usual play. The gambling connected with these sports enables them to carry on successfully against baseball, football, golf and other athletic pastimes. Let a man have a $2 bet on a nag or a greyhound and that is the paramount thought in his mind until the race is over.

Football, however, attracts thousands of persons who are not versed on horse or dog form. They are more interested in line plunges, forward passes and long kicks than in anything else.

Tomorrow Harvard opens against Springfield at the Stadium; Boston University entertains Lehigh at Fenway Park; Boston College clashes with the Kansas Wildcats at Newton; Tufts takes on Colby at Medford, while Northeastern (three cheers for my old Alma Mater) mingles with American International at Brookline.

There will be 50 important schoolboy games in Massachusetts tomorrow afternoon.

The total attendance at the college and schoolboy games held in Massachusetts tomorrow will be 150,000. A month from [illegible]

New Rumors Of Special Session Call

Close Advisors of President See Action Soon

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The bugaboo of an extra session of Congress is once again bothering business and the markets. And at a time when most observers had decided that the administration would not press for new legislation because of the uncertain market and trade outlook. But apparently these things will not count if the administration feels the urge to enact some pet ideas into law.

Close advisers of the President who are said to have previously urged him to call a special session early in November, are now reported as privately forecasting such action shortly after his return from the West. Crop control, wage and hour legislation and general tax revision are the leading subjects for special session consideration. We do not know just how important the first and last items are, but we cannot shake the idea that the real legislative gem is the second. If wage and hour laws are enacted they will probably look simple and inoffensive beside them, and business sentiment can hardly be expected to benefit. It is this, perhaps, that the market has been trying to tell us for some weeks.

* * *

Business conditions in the New England area did not vary much one way or the other last week. Distribution of goods continued good with Dun & Bradstreet reporting retailers quite active, particularly department stores, and the better class of small merchants is also getting his share of trade. Wholesalers are said to note a little more life in trade which suggests that distribution is on a sound basis with goods moving all along the line. Commodity manufacturing indices do not show up so well for the reason the dropping off in textile activity largely nullifies gains elsewhere.

* * *

The most unsatisfactory industry in the New England section is construction. However, this is not a condition peculiar to this section alone as most every sectional trade report reveals a lack of building operations. It is the current belief of trade analysts that construction activity would pick up soon but wish can only bother the thought that not actual results. All told we fear the hopes for a real building revival must be put off until 1938.

* * *

The stock market has arrived at another of those testing areas and should shortly supply an answer to the plaguing question as to whether or not the decline is over. On several occasions in recent weeks a small upswing has been negotiated over a stretch of several sessions only to have additional pressure make an appearance at a subsequent recession with the result new lows are set all around. Average prices right now are in a position for another such test and if a reaction can only take place without an increase in volume and on expansion in the number of issues traded market observers will breathe a sigh of relief.

* * *

Ideal technical market action of course, calls for a price dip just under the lows of Thursday with volume obviously contracting. This would be interpreted as a clear indication that necessitous selling is out of the way and the path to higher levels is clearing. Such a performance should hearten bulls now on the sidelines and awaiting an opportunity to buy in anticipation of the inevitable technical snapback.

Goods Sold Best Since '30

Wholesalers, Mfrs. Doing Well

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS)—Manufacturers and wholesalers sold more goods in August this year than in any similar month since 1930; the Commerce Department reported today.

Total net sales of 525 manufacturers gained 16 per cent above August a year ago. With only chemicals lagging behind, all 13 industries covered showed gains ranging from half of one to 29 per cent. Machinery scored the highest with 29, while motor vehicles was ahead 20 per cent.

Net sales of 1146 wholesalers reporting showed a 6 per cent gain over August, 1936. Collections were about the same as August a year ago, or 72 per cent of total sales.

The Dow-Jones average price for eight important iron and steel products remains unchanged from the preceding week at $53.96 a gross ton, Pittsburgh.

Capital Moves Can Well Be Bullish

New Deal Has Vast Power to Aid Wall Street

By B. C. FORBES

I cannot countenance the theory that fresh bearishness should be stirred up each time Washington makes a move friendly to the financial world.

Let it be admitted that any and every such action reflects recognition that the situation calls for amelioration.

But banking, finance, investments, our whole economic life, have become so rigidly regimented by government functionaries that they can play a more important part than ever before for national weal or woe.

Therefore, surely it is something to note that, after having instituted so many discouraging activities, they now grasp the need for changing their tactics, for activating constructively.

FAVORABLE GESTURES

The swelling of bank reserves, the reduction of Federal Reserve discounts to the lowest rate in all history, and now the liberalization, the broadening of the kinds and amounts of paper accepted as bases for discounting may not in themselves be calculated to cause Wall Street to indulge in bunnies. But, in my judgment, these gestures most assuredly should be interpreted as favorable, not unfavorable, as encouraging, not discouraging, since they are all of unquestionable significance even though of questionable immediate importance.

Has the financial world forgotten how potent was the effect of President Roosevelt's mere declaration, last April, that certain basic products were rising too far? The downswing in securities set in shortly thereafter, as also did increasing in certain raw materials and commodities, followed by chilling business sentiment and definite recession in some lines of activity.

WARNS OF DISTRUST

True, it is easier to tear down than to build up. Yet why should an about-face at Washington instigate fresh distrust? Why should it not have exactly the opposite effect?

After all, Washington can wield far more influence over Wall Street under New Dealism than it could before. Stocks, financial and exchange, everything, became so regimented by President Roosevelt, Congress, commissions, bureaucrats.

This writer had no sympathy with official dread that recovery was in danger of going too far either last year or this year, the contention was that the nation could stand more prosperity, much wider employment without courting inflation.

However much one may have criticised, throwing political hysterics to the winds is improvement, symptoms of a change of heart at Washington should be commended rather than condemned.

HAS MANY CARDS

Should he become convinced that reassuring action is necessary, President Roosevelt could play many cards against bears, against defeatism, against panicyness. No chief executive ever had so many cards up his sleeve, ever possessed such power to help or hurt.

All this is said without the slightest intention of implying that President Roosevelt can be depended upon to act constructively. But that the mid-moves already made have been launched without his approval is unthinkable.

Isn't this something to inspire new hopes rather than to incite new fears?

Building Trend Important Factor

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—In its weekly summary of the general business situation, the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, currently comments as follows:

"The building situation is a highly important factor in the general business outlook at this time because building is the only capital goods industry which has lagged far behind in the general return this year to approximately normal level of production in leading lines.

"Starting from a low level two years ago, building activity rose rapidly until mid-1937, when it encountered increases in costs so rapid as to discourage prospective builders. Margins of gain over a year ago levels have subsequently narrowed sharply. In fact, both residential and total contract awards for the first half of September fell shortly below those for the corresponding month a year ago.

"Although total building volume in 1937 will probably show close to a 20 per cent increase over 1936, aggregate contract awards will still be only about 50 per cent of former normal levels.

"However, only the building industry can provide the stimulus for another sustained expansion of private industrial activity. Upon this prospect largely hinges the answer to the question whether 1938 and subsequent years can experience total business volume equalling or exceeding those of 1937.

"Unfortunately for the peace of mind of investors and business executives, this question cannot yet be answered categorically one way or the other. The letdown has already occurred which has tended to curb the rising trend of costs, however, while the trend of rents—a governing factor in residential construction—is still upward.

"Resistance to high building costs may be gradually overcome, and any evidence that a renewed boom in building, however moderate, is to occur in 1938 would improve business conditions generally. Some time must elapse before this outlook begins to clarify, but the balance of probability seems to be slightly on the favorable side."

Trade Balance Favorable

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (INS)—The United States registered a favorable trade balance of $31,888,000 in August, when imports totalled $240,707,000, and exports were valued at $272,600,000, the Commerce Department reported today.

For the entire year, however, the nation has rolled up a huge favorable trade margin of $111,923,000. At the end of August, 1936, the American import margin was only $38,312,000.

Newspaper Ads Up in Week

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—A 3.6 per cent increase in the volume of display advertising placed in newspapers by retailers during the week ended Sept. 18, 1937, compared with the same week of 1936, is reported today by Advertising Age, national advertising newspaper.

Basing its figures on reports covering all of the newspapers in 80 major cities, Advertising Age says that retail advertising in those cities totalled 24,054,239 lines for the week, a gain of 824,873 lines over the 1936 total of 23,229,366 lines.

For the first 38 weeks of 1937, retail advertising in these measured cities is 4.8 per cent, ahead of the comparable period of last year, the trade's total is 731,182,801 lines compared with 700,708,040 lines during the corresponding period of 1936, an actual increase of 30,804,761 lines.

London Market Lacks Luster

LONDON, Oct 1 (INS)—A steady undertone pervaded a lackluster stock market here today. International issues were firm but trading was inactive. International Nickel sold at 32 7-32, U. S. Steel at 81 7-16 and Anaconda 38 7-32.

Copper stocks gained ground but reacted slightly on mid-day profit taking. Diamond issues were firmed. De Beers deferred being quoted at 15¾ pounds. Kaffirs were steady with West Witwatersrand selling at 8 pounds. Iron and steel issues eased while oil securities were irregular in practically idle trading. British funds were quiet and steady. German and French issues were firm while dullness marked the trading in Chinese and Japanese bonds.

Missouri Pacific Plan Attacked

Minority stock interests of Missouri Pacific attacked the road's modified plan of reorganization as unfair, inequitable and not in conformity with the bankruptcy act, yesterday, when Lewis Spratt, spoke in behalf of the common stockholders' protective committee, said the plans ought to perpetuate control of the system by the old owners.

Copper Market Performance True to Past

Soars With Inflation; Precedent Suggests Drop in Future

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)
Special to Boston American

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—One of the most striking phenomena of the business world is the way the market for copper performs in periods of inflation and collapse.

Not to go too far back, we find that in 1916, the monthly average price of Electrolytic Ingot Copper at New York ran up to 22.3 cents in August.

Again in 1929, there was a similar performance. Copper ran up to 21.3 cents in March. It cracked to 17.75 cents in June and then pegged at that level, through March, 1930. It dropped about 2 cents in April, and by May had settled to 15.6 cents. (The final bottom came in 1933, under 5 cents.)

Now we are seeing a somewhat similar performance.

HIGH AVERAGE 13.7

Using the same basis of quotation we find that the price of copper ran up to 13.7 cents in March, 1937. It cracked to 13.8 cents in May. It was pegged there through August. Now, in September, we find it crashing toward some 11 cents.

Already two cents have been lopped off, and the price on the New York electrolytic ingot basis is presumably 11.78 cents.

In each case, the copper market has soared under inflationary influences, and hit a peak at about the time the stock market was at a high.

One striking fact is that in the 1916 period the market was firmed. De Beers deferred being quoted at 15¾ pounds. Kaffirs were steady with West Witwatersrand selling at 8 pounds. Iron and steel issues eased while oil securities were irregular in practically idle trading. British funds were quiet and steady. German and French issues were firm while dullness marked the trading in Chinese and Japanese bonds.

Accepts Broderick Resignation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of J. E. Broderick of New York as a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve Bank.

At Broderick's request, the resignation became effective yesterday. Broderick, it was announced here, will become the new president of the East River Savings Bank of New York.

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Bar silver steady and unchanged at 19 13-16d. (Sterling price equivalent to 44.13 cents).

New Studio For Hearst Radio Unit

San Antonio Station Broadcasts Sunday

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 1.-KTSA, one of the Hearst group of radio stations and Columbia broadcasting system's outlet in San Antonio, begins broadcast operations next Sunday, October 3, in its new studios in the Gunter Hotel.

The studios are the most modern in the Southwest, and with KTSA's new Western Electric transmitter, installed less than a year ago, and a new 110-A Western Electric power amplifier, this station is now the most modernly-equipped in this territory.

The new studios were designed under the direction of Mr. W. G. Egerton, chief engineer of Hearst stations in the Southwest, in cooperation with the engineering staffs of the Columbia network, and consists of three main units.

Facilities include an auditorium with a capacity for 150 guests. The stage is 14 by 19 feet in dimension and will be completely equipped for modern radio production. Correct acoustical results are insured through the use of the gypsum materials on the ceilings and walls.

Dual control rooms include entirely new equipment and both are installed with latest Western Electric consoles. In each control room is a dual RCA transcription equipment. Latest design Fairchild transcription recording equipment provides facilities for continuous program reproduction.

Incorporated with the studios, all in modern fashion, is a reception room, a music library, news rooms and announcer's office. These rooms, together with the studios, are on the third floor of the Gunter Hotel.

Standard Oil Co. In Tax 'Move'

FLEMINGTON, N. J. Oct. 1 (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey Holding Company changed its corporate address from this city to Kinterdon County seat today in what was regarded as a retreat from high personal income taxes prevailing in the metropolitan north Jersey area.

Taxes, nearly $2,000,000 in 1936 in Newark, more than $1,000,000 this year in Linden, the Standard Oil Company, Inc., here, will pay only today's taxing date deadline for 1938 and located here.

Former Judge Arthur K. Large, a member of the prosecution staff at the Bruno Hauptmann trial, was designated official agent upon whom all processes are to be served.

A small cardboard sign "Standard Oil Company, Inc. Law Department," on the door of Large's office revealed the new official home of the giant corporation.

Compromise Near In Rail Pay Row

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Railroad management and representatives of 300,000 members of the five operating brotherhoods were reported today to be near a compromise on demands for a 20 pay cent wage boost.

William M. Leiserson, federal mediator, declined to confirm reports that a committee representing carriers had agreed on an offer which promised to end the six weeks' deadlock and said the negotiations would be continued.

Gross revenues for the month were $359,511,955, against $350,447,811.

Get the 'Big Shots!'

MONDAY Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman, deploring Massachusetts' failure to drive out "the big shots" among racketeering criminals, suggested that Governor Hurley appoint a fearless, non-political prosecutor like Thomas E. Dewey of New York City.

Today we hear from Mr. Dewey himself. He says in effect that it is a waste of time to catch the ordinary law-breaker.

He means, of course, that the burglar who robs your home, the thief who steals your purse and the thug who holds you up are PETTY characters who can be rounded up by the hundreds without an appreciable reduction in the crime problem.

The REAL problem, he says, is ORGANIZED crime and racketeering—a kind of organization which has made old methods of law enforcement obsolete, and which require that law enforcement itself be organized along new lines to meet the modern menace.

That is the truth. Mr. Dewey has proved that it is the truth. By his arrest and conviction of KEY MEN, far removed from the actual scene of crime, he has repeatedly put an end to the activities of hundreds of criminals the police have never touched.

He tells us: "Every large criminal organization which my office prosecuted has been set up like an INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISE. The list of defendants in the cases has included DEPARTMENT HEADS IN EVERY BRANCH OF CRIME and LAWYERS WHO ADVISED IN EVERY ACT."

WISELY, Mr. Dewey does not suggest relaxation of constant police vigilance in protecting the public against thieves, thugs and trigger men who prey upon society. BUT HE DOES SAY:

"What we need in the new approach to organized crime is a general understanding that the arrest of the little fellow is ONLY THE BEGINNING, not the end.

"The arrest and conviction of a minor criminal helps no more to win the fight on organized crime than a bullet shot up in the air will affect the result of a war."

That is indeed the voice of experience. Mr. Dewey, in New York, found the "Big Shots" in crime and racketeering entrenched deep in the social, business and professional life of the community, surrounded by smart lawyers and protected by close alliances with politicians.

They were hard to get at, but Prosecutor Dewey sent many of them to prison for long terms. He now vows that he will convict them all.

CERTAINLY the type of honest and intelligent prosecution he has conducted can and should be duplicated in Massachusetts.

As Commissioner Lyman says, WE MUST MAKE UP OUR MINDS TO SEPARATE POLITICS AND CRIME.

The spectacle of the father of a large family going to jail for stealing a loaf of bread while the "big time" racketeer and his legal and political partners who steal millions ride around in chauffeur-driven automobiles is sickening.

Unmask the Klansmen

MASSACHUSETTS applauds the decision of the special legislative committee on subversive organizations to investigate activities of the Ku Klux Klan. A society of men who mask their faces and meet in secret is subversive in the fullest sense of the word.

This free State has no place for persons whose sworn purpose is to drive out all Americans who do not happen to entertain their particular beliefs and aims.

Our progress has resulted from the fact that we have outlawed bigotry and bigots to the extent that all people, regardless of race, creed or political affiliation, have enjoyed ar equal opportunity to live and work in this Commonwealth.

Consequently, if now there are in our midst such narrow-minded individuals as the Klansmen, they should be brought out into the open and held up to the scorn they so richly deserve.

It is bad enough to have the President of the United States appoint an alleged "Ku Kluxer" to the Supreme Court bench without our having to provide a haven for the organization's disciples in the Bay State, where the vast majority of men and women are overwhelmingly against all that a hooded cloak and a fiery cross stand for.

They Refuse to Salute

FIVE children, members of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, are expelled from school in Sudbury. Thus the often-discussed flag salute controversy is revived.

Their belief, these young students contend, makes it impossible for them to pledge allegiance to a human emblem. Consequently, they accept the Superintendent's edict and leave their classes.

This is unfortunate; honoring the Stars and Stripes cannot by any stretch of the imagination interfere with an individual's wish to worship God. Rather, such an act should make him a worthier, more respectful follower of the Deity.

All right thinking sons and daughters honor fathers and mothers. In fact, the Bible commands this show of affection. Yet no son or daughter ever thinks that a proper regard for parents conflicts with the homage he would pay to God.

That ought to be everybody's attitude toward Old Glory, Jehovah's Witnesses not excepted. Old Glory is our national father and mother. It is the symbol of all that our country stands for. In war it signifies our protection. In peace it represents the liberty, justice and freedom that American citizens enjoy.

Surely, as grateful recipients, we owe the Stars and Stripes a salute of respect.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Thoughts while strolling: Outsiders walked off with the two most famous glamour girls — Tallulah Bankhead and Miriam Hopkins. No one can out-smirk Milton Berle. Alfred P. Singer is a ringer for Connie Mack. 30 years ago. Brief cases have gone the way of the walking stick. Guess for the next Republican presidential nominee. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. Add genuine dog lovers: Gabriel Heatter, the ace radio commentator. Swell philosophy: My grandmother used to say "It wasn't even raining when Noah built the ark." Married and pair. Rugs Baer and the Mex.

O. O. McIntyre

When there's better publicity in Hollywood. Samuel Goldwyn will get it. For the modern historian The Waldorf has the only bar in the world exclusively for men. Paradox. The shyest and least talkative of all radio artists away from the "mike" is Gracie Allen, bless her.

Rhyme. Damon Runyon is certainly a glum 'un. For that comeback look, my vote still goes to Joan Crawford. What's become of Earl Carroll's brother Jim? Ruff Cobb could pass for Alice Brady of ten years ago. Radio voices alike. Raymond G. Swing and Alexander Woollcott.

For an unholy hair contest: Jay C. Flippen and Jim Tully. Bradshaw Crandall, who paints those pretty magazine cover girls and never had an art lesson. What a gift! Neat trick if you can do it: Passing the Empire Tower, atop suddenly, glance to the top and walk on without swaying.

London night crowds have been in high giggles over the antics of Frank J. Isse, the trick waiter who does everything cock-eyed. He first appeared in Vincent Lopez's night club several years ago and later featured at banquets. A sad-faced fellow, he stands at the entrance and from the start does everything wrong. He shows guests to the wrong table, hands them menus upside down and pulls up a chair from a nearby table to sit while taking their order.

The most battle-scarred veteran of the night clubs in New York, Paris and London is Belle Livingston, now in her 60's, who is planning another invasion of the battle-fronts. She had a brief set of speakeasy prosperity during the latter days of prohibition, when her private residence grotto was one of the spots of the town's spenders.

But after several raids her career zig-zagged in the manner of a runaway selamograph. Now she is going to have another try.

I met Belle in a red plush, lump-and-bump Montmartre Bath bistro called The Chicago Inn on the avenue de la Bordonnais long before she came to America. She was then well known to all the night life crowd, especially around Barry's Bar. And equally known to the night haunts of London.

Ray Long had her write some of her experiences in the Cosmopolitan and thus spread her fame in America.

Kansas born, she immediately came home and cashed in on her sudden celebrity.

Abel Green's personal correspondence is couched in the same style as his articles in Variety. Pictures are "pix," and so on through his entire slangy lexicon. All agree he writes with vigor and plenty of his essays are true in mirroring the Broadway scene as is.

Those meeting him first time expect to find a hard-boiled out-of-the-side-of-the-mouth talker with vitriol in his words. Instead, they find a soft-spoken precisionist, one whose phrasing has a professorial tone, and with it all a shyness that often burgeons into a blush.

He was hand-picked and tutored by Sime, and when Sime's self-effacing son did took over the Variety reins he gave Green full headway. They have proved an excellent combination Tall Timber?

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

"Youth is ungrateful . . . hard-hearted . . . utterly self-ish"

"Youth thinks only of its own pleasure

"Youth forgets the old hands that have served it the old hearts that have sacrificed their own ease and comfort that it might go joyously free!"

Elsie Robinson

Have YOU said these things of YOUTH, with the bitterness turning in you like poisons? Perhaps. It's so easy—so human—to hurl a scorn thought. Yet, if you had looked closer you might have found springs of tenderness beneath that seeming flippancy . . . such tenderness as we're passing on today.

"Mother-in-law" . . . as a time immemorial she has been the target for jeers and jokes—or worse. Mother-in-law is a female monster responsible for the broken homes, the divided hearts. And on and on—until every bride shivers at the thought of this across.

A WORD OF PRAISE

But here comes one young wife with a different tale:

"DEAR MISS ROBINSON:

"May I say a word for that forgotten Household Treasure, the Mother-in-Law? I am a daughter-in-law, not a mother-in-law yet, since my son is only four years old. However, I sometimes wonder—Where would we be if it were not for the mother-in-law whom we flay as readily and as hard?

"Who would keep Junior or Sally when we want to see that show, or go to a dance or a bridge party? Or, more important, when we had to go to the dentist or shopping? A nurse or some hired help would do very well, we hear. But most of us can't afford such simple help, even if we dared trust them.

"To whom can we leave our babies without a qualm, and all our household worries when we're sick—knowing she'll never ask a cent for a return?

"Does our imagination not reach far enough for us to realize how we shall feel, when some day we ourselves will be that much criticized person—the mother-in-law?

"WHY SHOULD WE TAKE A WOMAN'S SON AWAY FROM HER, AND WALK AROUND WITH A CHIP ON OUR SHOULDER—READY FOR A FIGHT AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE? I BELIEVE ANY WOMAN WORTHY OF BEING CALLED A WIFE COULD WIN THE LOVE AND RESPECT OF HER HUSBAND'S MOTHER IF SHE TRIED HARD ENOUGH IT WOULD PROBABLY NOT REQUIRE HALF THE EFFORT IT TOOK TO WIN HER SON.

"There is nothing more pathetic than a man torn between the love and loyalty he bears for his wife and mother. We could not, loving that husband as we do or should, cut off his leg or arm or even a finger. Yet we can never open his heart and compassionately watch it bleed, feeling that we are within our rights!

"Thousands of wives grudge their mother-in-law a kind look, but here's one who says—

"THANK GOD FOR MY DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW . . . GOD BLESS AND KEEP HER!

Mildred Clevenger—age 28."

THEN ELSIE SAYS:

Dear child, you'll never know how many you've comforted with your loving tribute!

Life is so full and sweet for you now—you cannot guess how empty the years can be for those who have no fresh dreams of their own . . . no bright new pride . . . no busy place in life.

You cannot know how hungry the heart can grow for just such words as you have said today.

And so I'm suggesting—to all you young daughters-in-law—HOW ABOUT CLIPPING KINDLY MILDRED'S LETTER . . . SENDING IT ON TO THAT MOTHER-IN-LAW OF YOURS OWN? It's a promise!

Marry -GO- Round

By Helen Rowland

A man is never so happy as when he is giving a woman "advice"—and he is always "advising" some woman about something.

When a woman marries a man, she acquires an authentic human edition of the "Encyclopedia Britannica" that can "tell her about everything"—and insists on doing it!

Some children can't take calomel, and some women can't take advice. The latter are always either spinsters until they are forty—or divorcees before they are thirty.

A man may admire an intelligent woman, but the woman he loves is the one who hangs on to his coat-lapel and begs him to TELL her "all about" something she knows more about than he does.

After a woman, through her intuition and ingenuity, has found out how to do something, a man can always stand around and tell her a better way of doing it. Before marriage, it is rather thrilling to discover what a Big Beautiful Wonderful Mentality you have captured; it makes you feel so little and tender and helpless. But after marriage, you discover that his solicitude was not inspired by love of you—but by love of "giving advice."

A woman will take a lot of things from the man she loves—from his money to his browbeating—but the one thing she HAS to take, if she wants the man, is his ADVICE.

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

Napoleon talked of peace, but spent most of his time fighting or getting ready to fight. The same condition prevails today. All the nations of earth say they want peace. But all the great powers are engaged in a race to see which can get ready for war the quickest.

And over in China, Japan is giving a demonstration of mass murder which should make the world more determined than ever to go to any lengths to avoid war.

In spite of all the pomp and the spectacular displays attending the visit of Mussolini of Italy to Hitler of Germany, they are pretty much like a couple of American farmers. One farmer, visiting another, will be shown his host's crops and livestock.

Hitler displays for Mussolini's entertainment the armed strength of Germany.

Mussolini's German visit was the occasion for the greatest army and navy maneuvers Germany has staged since the World War. This display of military and naval might undoubtedly had two purposes. One was to show Mussolini how important it is for him to continue on close terms with Hitler. The other was to impress the rest of Europe with Germany's comeback as a world military factor.

Japanese continue to justify the aerial raids in which Chinese civilians have been slain by the thousands on the grounds that these are in strict compliance with international law as the bombs dropped were aimed at military objectives.

There has been no declaration of war in China. Consequently Japan can have no legal military objectives there.

And so far as aiming bombs at military objectives is concerned, that reflects scandalously upon the ability of Japanese aviators.

Reports are current that President Roosevelt will call a special session of Congress to meet early in November to enact farm legislation and revise tax laws.

One argument for the special session is that if a new farm program is to be adopted, it must be drawn up speedily so the Department of Agriculture can get it into operation before farmers plant their 1938 crops. Of course, the winter wheat crop will be in before a new law can be enacted.

An Oklahoma woman, digging earthworms at $1 a gallon, says she has made between $1000 and $1200 in the last two years. She estimates she has sold at least four millions of them. She went into the worm digging business to boost the family income and help take care of her five children.

During a study which extended over a long period of years, Darwin found there is an average of approximately 53,000 earthworms to an acre of British soil, the number running as high as one-half million per acre on some fallow land.

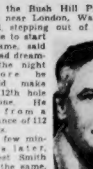
He calculated that an average of ten tons of earth per acre passes through their bodies in a year and that their castings cover the surface at the rate of three inches in fifteen years.

A Dream Come True

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

At the Rush Hill Park Golf Club near London, Walter Gatward, stepping out of the club house to start the game, said he had dreamed the night before he would make the 12th hole in one. He did, from a distance of 112 yards.



Edwin C. Hill

A few minutes later, Ernest Smith did the same, from almost the same distance. Chance? At Duke University, Dr. J. B. Rhine published in the results of 100,000 experiments which lead him to conclude that telepathy is a fact. He said there were just 100,000,000,000 chances to one against the apparent thought transference being accidental.

The chances against a given man at a given time and place making a hole in one are calculable. Records of such performance allow a basis of estimate. But the dream business is harder to figure.

Dr. Rhine would have to know how many people throughout the world dreamed the same thing that night before one drove out making their hole in one. That, of course, he could never know.

SAW IT IN DREAM

The worst disaster of our times was the eruption of Mt. Pelee on the island of Martinique on May 8, 1902. It killed 26,000 persons. And it was all dreamed out nicely by an American citizen a month or so ahead of time—and the dream was on record before the earthquake. In the new science of parapsychology, that dream is exhibit A in studies of the possibility of some different time and space order, other than the one we know.

Chance and coincidence invalidate about 99.9 per cent of the dream stuff when it is scientifically examined. That remaining 1 per cent is how getting a cold, critical examination by some of the most adept scientists in the world; men in all the market, politics, labor, agriculture, dog tracks, diplomacy—even the small-talk-ers in the "Comedie Humaine."

Probably one should take care to keep from out-guessing the wily and financially liquid.

Personally, I find that tough-minded realism, like that of old Montaigne, are usually right in their predictions that a heaving and plunging universe always rights itself, and pulls through both the dream mists and the "bludgeonings of chance."

March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

Norman Angell some years ago wrote a widely read book entitled "The Great Illusion." The "Great Illusion," according to Mr. Angell, was war.

War is not an illusion, but a raw, hideous, historical and everyday fact. It is "REALITIES" that are the "Great Illusion." It is the promises of diplomats that are the "Great Illusion."

Now is the time for our own good that we in America became aware of the worthlessness of all European and Asiatic signatures to treaties, "pacts" or protocols.

We have lived in a fool's paradise of "illusions." Let us prepare NOW for a defense IN FACT and not on paper before we hear the WHIR OF ENEMY WINGS OVER AMERICA!

Speaking of the League of Nations—

While bombs rain death over the plains of China and Spain and the war-lords of Europe and Asia leisurely prepare for an onslaught on millions of civilians, the League of Nations opened it.. new assembly palace at Geneva with 2500 bottles of champagne. The gay party was given by Aga Khan, the "spiritual head" of the Ismaelian church and president of the League by orders of John Bull.

Lest you have forgotten, the League of Nations was created by the Treaty of Versailles in 1920 "to end wars." Today, after 17 years, it has a golf-playing membership of 52 nations, one of the most magnificent buildings in the world, 2500 empty champagne bottles and a record of having done nothing in particular except foment trouble among the major powers.

Thanks to the United States Senate, we Americans are not a member of the Club Champagne de Geneve.

Mr. J. Dillon of Brooklyn, who evidently knows his Irish history, writes to me in considerable heat that Wolfe Tone the famous Irish patriot, did not commit suicide in his cell the day before he was to be hanged, but that he was murdered in his cell by the English, who then gave it out that he committed suicide.

My authority for the suicide was the Encyclopaedia Britannica. But history books, as Mr. Dillon so justly observes, are "strong liars."

It is more than likely that Wolfe Tone was murdered in his cell—since the English of that day certainly were not above such crime.

The National Park Service of Washington thinks that the world-famous picture painted by Emmanuel Leutze, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," is "unreal."

"No man in his senses," says a bulletin of the Park Service, "fresh off all the commanders-in-chief of the Continental armies would stand erect in an open boat in the first place and in the second jammed river was being negotiated."

Why not? It was not nearly as dangerous as Admiral Farragut, strapped to the mast of his ship or Napoleon having his horse shot from under him at Lodi.

Heroic men should always be shown in their "unreal" roles in paintings. It isn't the bare fact that matters. It is the exhibition of an heroic soul in an heroic position, even if that position has got to be invented by the artists, that matters.

Phocion, the famous Athenian general, was so suspicious of popular approbation that when one of his discourses had been interrupted by tumultuous applause he turned to one of his friends and asked:

"Could I have said something stupid?"

Hearing the thunderous applause in the newsreels that greets the speeches of the dictators of Europe, we see how far these dictators are from the humorous wisdom of old General Phocion.

The term "American Communist Party" is a contradiction in terms. It doesn't make sense to a Detroit reader of "March of Events" observes.

We may as well talk about a American Nazi Party, Puritan Pagans or a Jeffersonian Fascist.

Communism is all that our Constitution, which protects in many clauses the RIGHTS OF PRIVATE PROPERTY, is opposed to. Communism in opposed to the very genius of our people —whose core-thought is "MY rights," "MY property," "MY money." "MY liberty."
